SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE N. Y. TIMES.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, April 27.

ARRIVAL OF DESERTERS.

A squad of twenty-five deserters from the rebels, belonging mostly to the Fifteenth Virginia Regiment, arrived here from the front today. They escaped while out on picket duty. They agree in their statement that Lee has been of late receiving heavy reinforcements. One of them, who left on Monday last, asserts that much of the heavy artillery had been sent back to Richmond, and the belief was current among the soldiers that an early retrograde movement upon that city would be made.

REBEL MOVEMENTS.

One of Longstreet's divisions has been sent back to Richmond from Lee's army.

REPORTED CAPTURE OF NEWBERN.

Report of the capture of Newbern by the rebels is current here tonight, and we found no contradictory source. In answer to the inquiry concerning it at the War Department, it was ascertained that no intelligence of this sort has been received there, and the report is discredited. It is probable that this rumor grew out of an order of Gen. BUTLER forbidding civilians from going to Newbern.

RETALIATION.

It is said that orders will soon be issued to commanders who have hitherto stood under them to carry out retaliatory measures upon the rebels. What these measures are has not yet transpired.

THE DRAFT.

Orders have been issued for an immediate draft in the States of Pennsylvania, New-Jersey, Massachusetts, Ohio and Missouri. The draft will probably be ordered in Delaware and some districts of Maryland.

IMPORTANT TO CAVALRY REGIMENTS.

The War Department has ordered that cavalry organizations which cannot immediately be supplied with horses, will be armed and employed as infantry. They may be used to guard depots and railroads, or be assigned to infantry brigades in the field. When regiments so assigned are partially mounted, their horses will be transferred to others. Commanders of departments and separate armies are authorized to dismount and employ as infantry any cavalry regiment, which has been neglected as to care of its horses, or has proved inefficient in the field, and transfer its horses to others. The proportion of cavalry to be temporarily converted into infantry will not exceed forty per cent. of any command, unless it is found that the remaining sixty per cent. cannot be kept sufficiently mounted.

THE NAVY-YARD SITE.

The postponement of the selection of the site for the navy-yard on the Atlantic coast until next session, was rescinded to-day by the Naval Committee at the urgent solicitation of the Secretary of the Navy. The proposition to make League Island the site was supported by a vote of five to three. The committee adjourned over until to-morrow, when the merits of New-London will be decided upon.

THE EXECUTION OF MOSBY, SCHERMERHORN, ETC.

A bill will shortly be reported by the House Military Committee, providing that all spies, marauders, guerrillas and outlaws, convicted by competent tribunals, shall be carried into effect by the commanding officer in the field, without awaiting approval by the authorities at Washington.

NOMINATIONS REFERRED ADVERSELY.

Nominations of Col. Wallace and Lieut.-Col. Briggs were reported upon adversely to-day by the Senate Military Committee.

OPERATIONS OF THE TREASURY.

On the 15th instant, forty-seven millions suspended requisitions by upon the table of the Secretary of the Treasury; on the 20th instant, they and all current demands had been met, leaving about sixteen millions money on hand.

PERSONAL.

Gen. BURNSIDE resigned his command to-day.

THE FRENCH TOBACCO VESSELS.

The impression here is that French vessels on the James River were notified by the rebel Government not to remove the stream or remove torpedoes and other impediments which have been made in that stream.

DISPATCHES TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, April 27.

CONFIRMATIONS.

The Senate, in Executive Session, confirmed the following nominations of Brigadier-Generals:

Col. Sylvanus Thayer, U. S. A., late of the Corps of Engineers; from May 31, 1863.

Col. Hiram Berdan, Sixth Maine Volunteers.

Col. Edward M. McCook, Second Indiana Cavalry.

Col. Dewitt A. Grant, Fifth Vermont Volunteers.

Col. Edward Hatch, Second Iowa Cavalry.

PROGRESS OF THE TAX BILL.

The Internal Revenue Bill will be reported to the House from the Committee of the Whole to-morrow. Nearly all of the sections have been considered. Upward of five hundred amendments have been made to the bill; many of them are of a vertical character. None of the taxes originally reported have been lessened; but, on the contrary there has been a considerable increase. All of the amendments have yet to be acted upon by the House without debate.

SHOT BY A GUERRILLA.

A private in the One Hundred and Twelfth Pennsylvania Regiment on picket duty across the Potomac, at Fort Ethan Allen, near the Chain Bridge, was shot last night by guerrillas.

MORE RESTITUTION.

The Secretary of the Treasury has received, through Major-Gen. DIX, $100 transmitted to that General by some unknown person, who acknowledges it to be due the United States.

INDIAN APPROPRIATIONS.

The Secretary of the Interior has asked Congress to appropriate $150,000 for the several bands of Chippewas in the Northwest, to aid in removing and establishing them on their own reservation, and support them in part until the end of the next fiscal year.

EXAMINATION OF GEN. CRAWFORD.

Gen. CRAWFORD was examined to-day by the Committee on the Conduct of the War, in relation to the operations upon the left at the battle of Gettysburgh, in which his division bore a part.

THE SEVEN-FORTY LOAN.

The subscriptions to the Seven-Forty Loan to-day amounted to $203,000.

THE HUNDRED-DAY TROOPS.

The following letter accompanied the joint resolution appropriating $20,000,000, which was to expeditiously passed in the House to-day just previous to the recess:

WAR DEPARTMENT, April 26.

SIR: The Governors of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin have tendered to the President, on the 23d inst., a large number of volunteers from their respective States, for service during the present campaign. They are expected to number from eighty to one hundred thousand men; their time of service one hundred days from the muster in. It is believed they can render no great service. They are to be paid no bounty, &c., are not to count on using the draft for three years' men in the States where the quota of the pending draft is not filled yet. The quota is filled up in Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin, and less than two thousand are due from Ohio. The excess of these troops is not provided for in the estimates heretofore submitted. It is estimated that twenty-five millions of dollars will meet the cost of one hundred days' service of these extra volunteers. I respectfully recommend a special appropriation for that purpose, and submit a form of resolution to that effect. The regiments organized ready, is expected that there should be early action by Congress upon the proposition, so that if sanctioned, all needful provision may be made in due season.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant, EDWIN M. STANTON.

THE THREE OR THREE YEARS' TROOPS.

The Star of this evening says: "As the time is approaching when some of the regiments belonging to the Army of the Potomac are to be discharged from the military service of the United States by reason of the expiration of the term for which they were mustered into and the service, Maj.-Gen. MEADE has announced to such troops that the War Department has decided that the term of service of each regiment is to be computed from the time of its muster into the service of the United States without reference to the date of enrollment of any service rendered in the state. The Commanding-General will, however, at all times be glad to receive and forward for the consideration of the proper authorities, any respectful communication touching the term of service of the regiment, which such term appears to be involved in doubt. The Commanding-General in making this announcement, expresses the hope that the regiment to be discharged will cheerfully acquiesce in the decision of the Government with regard to their term of service, and that no organized bodies or individuals, after having borne an unsullied reputation during all the eventful scenes which have marked their connection with the Army of the Potomac, will suffer the honorable fame they have won by their gallantry and good conduct, to be tarnished in their closing hours of their service by acts of insubordination, which, if ventured upon, by any will be promptly suppressed, and can only terminate in the speedy and certain punishment of the offending parties."

FEE ON LAWRENCE AND WELLAND CANAL.

The State Department has been officially informed of the passage of an order by the Government Council of Canada, providing that from and after the 15th day of April, instant, the following articles having paid full tolls through the St. Lawrence Canal, be passed free through the Welland Canal, and if tolls shall have been previously paid thereon through the Chambly Canal, such tolls shall be refunded at the canal office at Monroe, viz: Iron of all kinds, salt, and the following articles, having paid full tolls through the Welland Canal, shall be passed through the St. Lawrence and Chambly Canals: Wheat, flour and corn.

PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, April 27.

MORE RAISING SOLDIERS' PAY.

Mr. GRIMES, of Iowa, (Union,) presented petitions of the wives, daughters and sisters of soldiers in the army, setting forth that the pay of their husbands, fathers and brothers is inadequate, and praying an increase of their compensation.

HALF-BREED LAND SCRIP.

Mr. RAMSEY, of Minnesota, (Union,) introduced a bill making Dacotah and Sioux half-breed land scrip assignable, which was referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

COMMERCIAL BILLS.

On motion of Mr. CHANDLER, of Michigan, (Union,) of the Committee on Commerce, the House bill for the prevention and punishment of frauds in relation to the names of vessels, was taken up, amended, and passed.

Also, the House bill to regulate the remeasurement of tonnage of ships and vessels of the United States.

Also, the House bill to provide for the collection of hospital dues on vessels of the United States sold or transferred in foreign ports.

All of which were passed.

PAY AND RATIONS OF SOLDIERS.

Mr. WILSON, of Massachusetts, (Union,) reported from the Military Committee a bill concerning the subsistence and pay of the army, which makes the ration the same as it was at the beginning of the war, and pays to the non-commissioned officers and privates two dollars per month, that being something more than the cost between the present ration and the old one. It will give twenty-four dollars a year to the privates in lieu of the company fund, which is of small benefit to the private soldiers.

THE NATIONAL CURRENCY BILL.

The consideration of the bill to provide a National currency secured by the pledge of the United States bonds, &c., came up as the special order.

The pending question was on the Finance Committee's amendment imposing a tax of half per cent. on the circulation, a quarter on the deposits, and a quarter on the capital beyond that which is in United States bonds, provided that States, municipalities and companies may tax the shares of a bank held by individuals or corporations the same as other private means.

Mr. POMEROY moved to strike out the proviso in the Senate Committee's amendment, that nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent the marked value of shares in any of the said associations held by any person or body corporate from being included in the valuation of the personal property of such person or corporation in the assessment of all taxes imposed by or under State authority for State or other purposes; but not at greater rates than is imposed upon other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens of such State, and all the remedies provided by State laws for the collection of such taxes shall be applicable thereto," and insert in lieu thereof: "Provided that nothing in this act shall be construed as exempting the capital stock of any association beyond the amount invested in United States bonds, and deposited deposited with the Treasurer of the United States as part of its capital, or as security for its circulating notes, from being subject to the same rate of State and municipal taxation as is imposed upon other personal property in the State, or city or town in which the association is located."

Mr. POMEROY explained that the effect of the amendment would be to allow States to tax all capital except that part into United States bonds. He said this was in keeping with the existing law.

Mr. HOWARD, of Wisconsin, (Union,) supported the amendment, urging that the States had not the right to tax Government bonds.

Mr. COLLAMER, of Vermont, (Union,) argued that, by the terms of the United States loans, the bonds were not to be taxed by the General Government, but there was no pledge as to State taxation. The tax upon the shareholders was not a tax upon the stock of a bank. He did not, however, see how the States could get along with one tax after another, put upon them and monopolized to the General Government. This was not the principle upon which the Government set out. The only exception in behalf of the Government was in regard to duties on imports, not as a revenue measure, but for the sake of uniformity, as the different States would have had different duties. The sources of taxation should be in common. To pass this amendment would be renouncing that amount of capital solely for Government purposes. It was a question with him whether or great an amount could be withdrawn from State taxation without serious disturbance.

Mr. CHANDLER, of Michigan, (Union,) supported Mr. Pomeroy's amendment, arguing that the Committee's proposition would kill the bill. He had authority for saying that we were not selling more than half enough of the ten-forties to meet the daily wants of the Government. What could be a greater misfortune than for Congress to say they should not be taxed. There were many circulars circulating constitutional objections to measures which were necessary to sustain the Government. He, for one, was not afflicted with the prevalent disease of "Constitution on the brain."

Mr. JOHNSON, of Maryland, (Union,) said that, however he might wish to preserve the Government of the United States, and to preserve the rights of the States. The latter had the power of taxation, and in the formation of the Constitution there was no abnegation of that power, save as indicated by the Senator from Vermont. He did not know what Mr. CHANDLER meant by his being free from the disease of the "Constitution on one week." If he was entirely free from it, he had relieved himself from his oath of office. He (Johnson) had sworn to support the Constitution, and was only terrified by the idea that he would give a liberal construction to the Constitution. They probably agreed in opinion that the war was not at an end, and its results were in the womb of time. No one could tell what was to be the extent of the public debt. He opposed the amendment of Mr. POMEROY because he believed it was impolitic at this time. The State Governments as well as the National Government, were to be preserved with their reputation untarnished.

Mr. HENDERSON, of Missouri, (Union,) cited the decisions of Chief Justice MARSHALL in the case of McCULLOCH, in Maryland, declaring a State tax on the United States Bank void.

Mr. POMEROY replied that that case had no application to the present bill.

The further consideration of the subject was made the special order for to-morrow.

THE TERRITORY OF NEVADA.

On motion of Mr. WILKINSON the President was requested to communicate any information in his possession in reference to the Territory of Nevada.

THE PACIFIC RAILROAD BILL.

On motion of Mr. HOWARD, of Michigan, (Union,) the Pacific Railroad Bill was made the official order for next Monday.

The Senate then went into executive session, and shortly after adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, April 27.

THE INTERNAL TAX BILL.

The House went into Committee of the Whole on the Internal Tax Bill.

An amendment was made requiring commercial brokers to pay $25 for each license, without regard to the amount of their transactions.

Mr. MORRILL, of Vermont, (Union,) on behalf of the Committee on Ways and Means, moved, as an amendment, that on brown or Muscovado sugar, not above number 13, Dutch standard in color, and not directly from the sugar cane, and not from sorghum or imphee, other than that thus produced by the refiner, a duty of two cents per pound shall be imposed.

Mr. MORRILL explained that the duty is now two cents a pound, and the Committee on Ways and Means, on reconsideration, had come to the conclusion that the rate should be preserved, instead of placing it at one cent, as originally reported.

Mr. HALDEMAN, of Pennsylvania, (Dem.,) opposed the amendment. Rather than increase the tax on sugar, there should be a reduction.

The amendment was adopted by 56 against 47.

The bill was further amended so as to provide that on all chicory or refined sugars above number fifteen, produced directly from the cane, there shall be a duty of three cents, and on refined or clarified above number eighteen, four cents a pound.

Various amendments to the Stamp Duty section were made, including the following:

Increasing the duty on bills of lading of vessels, as follows: Where the consideration does not exceed $100 or fifty cents; over $100 and not exceed $1,000, 25; exceeding $1,000, and for every additional $1,000 or fractional part thereof, fifty cents.

Conveyances of real estate, where the consideration does not exceed $500, fifty cents, and for every additional $500, or fractional part thereof, fifty cents.

On bonds and mortgages and on real estate, the same duties as on conveyances.

Passage tickets to foreign ports, except to ports of British North America, where the price does not exceed $20, fifty cents; over $20, and not exceeding $50, one dollar, and over $50, and for every additional $50, or fractional part thereof, one dollar.

An amendment was accepted in relation to "warehouse receipts," providing as follows:

For fifty barrels of flour stored in a public or private warehouse or yard, a duty of five cents shall be charged; for fifty barrels, and not exceeding a hundred barrels, a duty of ten cents, and for every additional hundred barrels, or fractional part thereof, ten cents.

Every fifty bushels of Wheat are to be charged in the same proportion as the above.

On fifty barrels of beef, pork or preserved meats a duty of ten cents is to be charged; on over fifty barrels, and not exceeding one hundred barrels, twenty cents; and on every additional hundred barrels, or fractional part thereof, ten cents.

On fifty pieces of beef, bacon, or preserved meats, fifty cents; over fifty pieces, and not exceeding one hundred pieces, fifty cents; and for every additional hundred pieces or fractional part thereof, fifty cents.

On motion of Mr. KASSON, of Iowa, (Union,) a proviso was added to the "drawback section," as follows:

"There shall be an allowance or drawback on refined oil, when exported, of one dollar and thirty cents on a barrel of forty gallons."

Mr. KASSON explained that this amount for oil manufactured for exportation would be equal to the tax of a dollar a barrel already imposed on crude petroleum.

On motion of Mr. FENTON, of New-York, (Union,) an amendment was adopted, providing that no allowance shall be made for any amount claimed or due less than ten dollars.

A tax of five per centum ad valorem was placed on lace.

Mr. SYKES, of Pennsylvania, (Union,) moved to strike out the direct tax section.

Mr. MORRILL, of Vermont, (Union,) opposed the amendment, saying that it would be considered that "we want money." This direct tax was suspended for two years, one of which has already expired. If we have a tax, as a lien on rebel territory, it will enable the Government to enforce with more efficiency the confiscation of estates. It is right that parties in the rebel States should pay this tax as well as loyal men.

Mr. WILSON, of Iowa, (Union,) advocated striking out the direct tax section. He did not complain of the tax, but the direct tax, but of its inequality, which bore unfairly upon his own State.

Mr. MORRILL replied that it was a constitutional, just and proper tax.

Mr. DAWES, of Massachusetts, (Union,) showed that the gentlemen from Iowa (Wilson) had no reason to complain of the inequality of taxation, as Rhode Island and Connecticut pay four times as much as Iowa does.

Mr. SCHUYLER COLFAX, of Indiana, (Dem.,) offered the following, which Mr. SYKES accepted as a substitute for his own amendment:

"That the one hundred and sixteenth section of the Act to Provide Internal Revenue and Pay the Interest on the Public Debt, approved July 1, 1862, shall remain in full force."

Mr. HOLMAN said that the one hundred and sixteenth section suspended the collection of the direct tax for two years, or until April 1, 1865, and it would be a breach of faith to repeal it. Property, and not persons, is the legitimate object of taxation.

Mr. HOLMAN's amendment was agreed to.

A new section was added to the bill, as follows:

That whenever any or duty is imposed by law, and the mode and time of assessment is not therein provided, the same shall be provided for by a regulation of the Secretary of the Treasury.

On motion of Mr. BINGHAM, of Michigan, (Union,) an amendment was adopted, making solid chewing tobacco bear the same tax as fine cut, namely 35 cents per pound.

The committee then rose.

On motion of Mr. MORRILL, it was ordered that the bill be further considered this evening.

SUBSTITUTES OF THE SHORT-TERM TROOPS.

Mr. GARFIELD, of Ohio, (Union,) from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported a joint resolution appropriating $20,000,000 to pay for arming, equipping, clothing, subsistence, transportation and pay of Western Volunteers, for a term of service not less than one hundred days.

Mr. RAYMOND, of New-York, (Dem.,) said that he had no objection to its passage, as was proposed, provided a direct tax was imposed to pay that amount.

Mr. BROOKS, of New-York, (Dem.,) moved to refer the resolution to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Other gentlemen desired to discuss the proposition in Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union.

The resolution, however, was adopted by almost unanimous consent, and was passed, the House refusing to take the question by yeas and nays.

Mr. BROOKS exclaimed: "What! twenty-five millions of dollars voted in three minutes!"

The House here took a recess till 7 P. M.

EVENING SESSION.

INSPECTORS OF CUSTOMS.

Mr. FENTON, from the Committee on Ways and Means, reported the Senate bill authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to increase the compensation of inspectors of Customs, not to exceed four dollars per day, which passed.

THE TAX BILL AGAIN.

The House, in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the Internal Tax Bill.

Mr. PENDLETON, from the Committee of Ways and Means, proposed a number of amendments for the better and more speedy execution of the passing section of the bill, which were adopted.

On motion of Mr. KASSON, the 16th section of the Sub-Treasury Act of 1846, was adopted, as applicable to all officers of Internal Revenue charged with the custody of public moneys.

An amendment was adopted imposing a duty of 5 per cent. ad valorem on the gross amount of the sales of sugar refinery, including all the products of their manufacture or refineries.

On motion of Mr. MORRILL, 5 per cent. ad valorem was imposed on quicksilver produced from the mine.

One of the clauses was amended, so that a duty of 5 per cent be imposed on gold or silver produced from quartz mines, from beds of rivers, from the earth, or in any other way or manner, provided all such duties shall be payable in coin or bullion.

Mr. HIGBY, of California, (Union,) moved an amendment that no duty shall be collected on any amount under $500. This principle was adopted as to others, and why should it not be extended to miners.

Mr. STEVENS, of Pennsylvania, (Union,) said these miners had been spoiled by indulgence, and now they showed it through their Representative. They gathered their metals on land belonging to the Government, which have merely asked them for a small royalty.

Mr. HIGBY's amendment was rejected.

Mr. WALLACE, delegate from Idaho, moved to strike out the above proviso, requiring payment in coin. He said it was, in effect, a repudiation of the Government paper.

The proviso was stricken out.

The proviso relating to the rates of gold and silver bullion, etc., was altered so as to read, instead of:

"Any dealer shall be deemed, and held to be a broker, who shall sell or offer to sell, any gold or silver bullion, sterling exchange, uncurrent money, promissory notes, stocks, bonds, or other securities, and have sold at the time, and the next property actually in hand, shall be liable, in addition to all other penalties provided in this act, to pay 50 per cent. in addition to the rates of duty of one-fifth of one per cent. on sales or contracts for sales."

Mr. MORRILL said the intention of the proviso was to operate on the gold gamblers in New-York.

Mr. POMEROY, of Massachusetts, (Union,) unanimously moved to strike out the above proviso.

The committee, by a vote of 68 against 56, struck out the proviso, that all railroad, steamboat, ferryboat and bridge corporations, shall have the right to add the duty or tax imposed to their rates of fare, whenever their liability thereto may commence, any limitations which may exist by law or by agreement with any person or company which may have paid or be liable to pay such fare, to the contrary notwithstanding. These companies are now required to pay a duty of two and a half per cent. on their gross receipts.

The committee rose without disposing of the bill, and at twenty minutes before eleven o'clock the House adjourned.

The schooner Carrie Wells, from Frontera, Mexico, reports: The Interventionist Governor of the State of Tabasco, Gen. Desertions—Reconnoissances—Reorganizations—Death of an Officer—Miscellaneous Items.

From our Special Correspondent.

HILTON HEAD, S. C., Friday, April 22, 1864.

The Third New-Hampshire Mounted Infantry Regiment, which, until quite recently, has been stationed at Jacksonville, Fla., seems to abound with unprincipled soldiers. Not long since a large number of deserters and sentinels joined the regiment, more than a dozen of whom have deserted to the enemy. Others attempted to desert, but were nipped in the act. Last week, private HENRY MILLER, of Company F, of the Third, was shot for thus deserting. I will state in justice to the regiment, that its recruits are at home on furlough, so these soldiers must be exempted from the charge of desiring to desert.

On the afternoon of the 10th inst., a reconnoissance was made to near Lawtersville, by a detachment of the One Hundred and Twenty-seventh New-York Regiment, under the command of Capt. GERRET, of Company E. The expedition was accompanied by the greatest distance, which opened her batteries on the rebel picketts stationed at James Island. A brief skirmish took place on the island, but no casualties occurred on our side from that cause. When our men were returning, one of the number stepped on a torpedo which was buried in the road, exploding the same, and wounding ELIJA B. MILLER, Company B, 3d; Corporal BROWN, Company E, 3d; and —— MORGAN, Company E, 47th. The ground was then searched, and twelve torpedoes were discovered.

On Wednesday last, Capt. LEWIS C. ADAMS, Jr., of Company F, Sixth Connecticut Regiment, and formerly Provost-Marshal of this post, died of sickness. By order of Lieut.-Col. MARSHAL, detachments of the regiment have been directed to wear a badge of mourning for thirty days.

The following is a translation of a letter written by HENRY BOWERMAN, of the Sixth Connecticut, who was shot for desertion last Sunday afternoon. Bowerman was a German, and joined the regiment as a substitute:

DEAR FATHER: When this letter reaches you, I shall not be longer living. I did very wrong years ago to leave you. Farewell, my dear parents, and you dear sisters, whom I shall never again in New-York. Do not grieve so much; and you, too, dear mother, my life is just. I deserved it, and have sacrificed my life in this land. A thousand times farewell, and hold me close in memory.

YOUR UNLUCKY SON.

The 30-pounder Parrott gun, which did such admirable service in shelling Charleston, has been replaced by another gun equally as effective.

The recent high tides at Morris Island have washed out from the sand three torpedoes which were buried near the inlet part of Fort Wagner. Several human bodies were also exposed to view, but they have since been restored at a point well removed from the beach.

Rev. WILLIAM HOWARD TAYLOR, of the Christian Commission, and lately attached temporarily as Chaplain to the One Hundred and Fifteenth New-York Regiment, has been presented by the non-commissioned officers and soldiers of that organization with a purse of $200, in testimony of his valuable services during the Florida campaign.

Three nights ago the rebels were making demonstrations at Fort Royal Ferry that had our destructive to suppose they might possibly be contemplating an attack on Hilton Head Island. Everything on land and river was placed in readiness to receive them, but, for some reason, they concluded not to venture an attack.

Eight rebel deserters, from Savannah, recently came into Port Pulaski. They report the enemy's forces to be changing positions. A considerable force is still in Florida, although it is thought it will soon be ordered to Georgia and South Carolina.

The Philadelphia Fair.

PHILADELPHIA, Wednesday, April 27.

A grand musical festival inaugurating the Great Central Fair, in this City, for the benefit of the Sanitary Commission, will commence at the Academy of Music, on the 4th of May, and will continue throughout a fortnight, under the musical direction of THEODORE THOMAS, of New-York, assisted by a number of the leading artists of this City. There is no doubt that a large sum will be raised by this festival. All the City passenger railroads, the steam railroads, and numerous manufacturing and other firms have already contributed to the funds of the fair. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has subscribed $10,000. From present evidences, it is believed that the fair in this city will equal, if not distance, that recently held in New-York. The space covered by the building in Logan-square will be three times larger.

GARIBALDI.

HIS ENTRANCE INTO LONDON.

From the London Gazette, April 15.

The entry of Gen. GARIBALDI into London was most emphatically a people's welcome, and was given with such a cordiality and good will as has seldom been equaled, and probably never excelled, even in our now somewhat long history of demonstrations in favor of distinguished visitors from all quarters of the globe. On the occasion of the entry of the Princess of Wales, the numbers of spectators may have been greater, because the route was longer, but the enthusiasm was not so intense. It would have been impossible for more than a small fraction of the immense crowd to have had any adequate idea of the last moment in making the final arrangements of things which were left to be arranged long before. Then there was greater crowding still, which was taken up from temporary or two arrow points on the station, and then there was hurried and rapid consultation. Some were heard to enthusiastically that it might be a false report, and that they had known it all along, and in the mind of the temporary quiet the General opposed at the entrance to the station, walking between his two sons—Menotti and Manonti—and a perfect storm of enthusiasm broke out that can always be remembered but never described. The shouts were deafening, and for some the shrill treble of the ladies' voices could be distinguished cheering and shouting heartily. The General wore the uniform in which he has always appeared in public in this country—that uniform he wore as leader of the Monteviden Italian Legion, a plain gray cassock and Garibaldi hat and red tunic. His rest in the Isle of Wight has made a considerable improvement in his health, hardly visible of his age, but he came home with the tired and travel-worn look, for he came home he landed at Southampton. His handsome, however, seemed so permanent as which he dropped from the Rigan, and without the aid of his stick it was evident that walking would be a slow and most laborious effort. As he advanced up the platform where he was to receive the address, ladies sometimes offered their bouquets to him over the barriers, and then his ordinary and expression of countenance at once changed, and with a most winning courtesy he turned to present their bouquet, and always had for each fair partner a word or two of English to thank them for the honor they did him. A little child was put forward to present him with a bouquet, but he instantly fastened on the flowers, so with the most perfectly natural and fatherly manner he took the child in his arms, kissed it, patted its curls, and kind as well as he probably spoke as it is English. While all this delay took place it was unexpected, and, above all, so perfectly simple and natural, that it did more than effect sympathies between GARIBALDI and all the ladies present. For the rest of the way down the platform he seemed almost unaffected by the intense enthusiasm of his welcome, but once on the dais, so to speak, he turned with the simple dignity that is natural to him, and with his calm, melancholy look, remained to receive the addresses.

The cheering which hailed his simple answers was if possible, even greater than before, could which, and as if carried away by the enthusiasm and hopefulness of the moment, an Italian lady suddenly addressed GARIBALDI, saying:

"GENERAL: You cannot but rejoice at the great demonstration which you have here witnessed to-day—nay, from the heart of the most powerful nation in the world. This nation has proved herself to be the friend of our country, and I am everywhere glad to hear of whatever this noble people can do for us. I am a native of Venice, of Venice Venetia. Almost to the moment when the all was in readiness the distant storm cloud, up the Austrian banner, then the tricolor was raised, and the deportable battle and long years which of many Italian liberty against despotism. Venice, may at last pour noble example hitherto all hearts too, may, at last, enable you to establish that civilization in Italy which will unite all humanity into a happy family."

It need scarcely be said how nobly this impromptu address took the audience by surprise, nor with what eagerness they listened to the short but most earnest exhortation, which was delivered with a force and appropriate to which it is difficult to give more report of the spoken words to give adequate expression. Probably at another time such an innovation on the constituent usages of public speaking in England would have been but coldly received, but here it was welcomed by thoroughly sympathetic and enthusiastic. At length, accompanied by a small body-guard, gentlemen, even the railing in front of public buildings became points of observation. In one balcony might be seen the First Commissioner of Works and the Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs; on a roof a little further on was the handsome figure of the Irish Chief Secretary, and numberless other dignitaries of State were dotted here and there, watching and welcoming the man who, with his own right hand, has done so much toward founding and building up the newest of great European States, South of the river the gathering, except in the windows, had been unmistakably plebeian in character. From this point, although the concourse retained in the main its previous characteristics, there was an infusion of higher elements, increasing on the way to Pall-mall. At the Opera-house there was a party of spectators almost formidable in point of numbers, and certainly [illegible] in its distinction; for, but contest with the crowding the plinth of the Nelson column to such an extent as actually to overhang the edge, others variously invested the bronze caryatides, supporting themselves by grasping the projections. The equestrian statute of Charles I. was similarly fixed, and the man long maintained a position on the back of the charger, steadying himself by clasping the Sovereign round the throat. To while away the tedium of waiting for the procession, he now appeared the copy of the monarch with a garland exhibiting the tricolor, and now replaced this with his own headpiece. To have done so much at other periods of our history might have entailed penalties on the joker; but yesterday was a great popular festival, and good humor, even if it were at times a little boisterous, reigned supreme from first to last. The streets along Pall-mall were not less crowded than at other portions of the route, and the greeting of the hero was equally cordial, but when he arrived at his destination night had already fallen. The Duke of Sutherland warmly welcomed him to Stafford House, and the Earl of Shaftesbury and other members of the nobility were in waiting to offer their congratulations.

GARIBALDI, among his visits on the 12th inst., made one of an hour's duration to Lord PALMERSTON, and one exceeding over a similar period to Mr. SLAWPOLE, M. P., which circumstance, especially for the recent plot against the Emperor NAPOLEON has occasioned no much excitement. The General seemed brilliantly fêted by the Duke of Sutherland, and was enthusiastically welcomed by the people whenever he made his appearance in public. He is to dine at Lord PALMERSTON'S, and also at Mr. GLADSTONE'S.

AMERICAN TOPICS.

EXPORT OF MUNITIONS OF WAR.

From the Liverpool Post, April 12.

On the 6th instant Lord ROBERT CECIL moved in the House of Commons for an "Account of guns and other munitions of war shipped from the port of Liverpool for America during the years 1861 and 1862, showing the quantity, description, value, and port of destination."

The return, was presented on Monday, and it tends to show that the North and South in 1861 were more intent on diplomacy than fighting, for in that year there were imported from England only 10,000 rifles and muskets, valued at £21,704, and of this quantity and 6 were sent to Mobile, and 901 to New-Orleans, then in the possession of the Confederates. The ordnance and ordnance stores imported in 1861 were only 15 tons [illegible]. Of this quantity not a military gun or munition of war went into Charleston, Mobile or New-Orleans. In 1861 the Federals get more in earnest, and imported considerably larger numbers of rifles and muskets, but, after all, not to an alarming extent, as will appear from the following table:

	1861.		1862.
Ancient Ports.	No.	Value.	No.	Value.
New-York	18,412	£3,119	178,078	£12,383
Boston	206	206	5,552	15,169
Charleston	....	....	....	....
Mobile	6	60	....	....
Baltimore	....	....	....	....
Philadelphia	22	24	....	....
New-Orleans	901	1,700	....	....
Portland	10	25	18,430	2,268
Total	19,557	£4,734	196,060	£30,820

The import of fowling-pieces and pistols seems to have been heavy as a matter of business. In 1861 the number of fowling-pieces imported from Liverpool was 3,625, valued at £5,006; but in 1862 the trade fell off—only 119 fowling-pieces were imported, and the value was £366. In 1861 Charleston, Mobile and New-Orleans took what might be considered their annual supplies; but in 1862 they got none. The export of pistols was also merely an average of the annual supply—none going to Charleston or Mobile, but 119 to New-Orleans. In 1861 the trade dwindled so much as to have been extinguished. We have already stated that in 1861 Liverpool shipped to New-York 1,000 tons of ordnance and ordnance stores, 15 tons 19 cwt. to Boston, and 15 tons 19 cwt. to Philadelphia. The value of these was £4625. In 1862 the ordnance and ordnance stores to the amount of 15 tons 4 cwt. went to New-York, but none to any other place. If the number of deadly weapons, however, was small, the percussion caps valued at £1,000 in 1861 to 2,106,000 caps, valued at £1,000. In 1862 the number increased to 11,047,000, valued at £1,000. The imports of swords from Liverpool were in both years quite insignificant.

The partisan feeling of Lord ROBERT CECIL exhibited very strongly in this return. He was no doubt under the impression that when made it would tell forcibly against the Federals and our Ministry, because evidently in the situation it would show forcibly against England's profession of neutrality. Statistics usually cause to functionaries of every kind, and Lord ROBERT CECIL has gained nothing by his motion, for it has demonstrated how one-sided are his views. But the document, only truth and facts, notwithstanding, would have included the export of the munitions of war from Liverpool to Nassau, the Gulf and Bermuda. That it would have been one which party derived most advantage from the neutrality of our Government, and the sympathy of our people.

THE EXODUS FROM LIVERPOOL.

From the Shipping Gazette, April 11.

The Government emigration officials at Liverpool completed the usual monthly and quarterly returns of the emigration from the Mersey yesterday week; and from the statistics before us it is quite plain that the Spring exodus from Liverpool has commenced "with a vengeance," and bids fair to rival that of any year since 1857. As usual, the Irish form the chief proportion of the people leaving the country for America, without taking into consideration the vast numbers which leave Ireland direct for the American ports, or the colonies. The number of ships sailing "under the act," to the United States in the month of March was 55, having on board 19,145 steerage and 350 cabin passengers, of which 2,002 were English, 314 Scotch, 9,850 Irish, and 954 foreigners; in Victoria, there were only two ships, with 504 steerage and seven cabin passengers, of which 512 were English, 48 Scotch, 206 Irish, and 11 foreigners, making a total of 27 ships and 14,066 emigrants, of which 2,021 were English, 3,586 Irish, 209 Scotch, and 954 other countries. The number of ships sailing "not under the act," to the United States were five, with 255 passengers; to New-Brunswick, one ship and 18 passengers; to St. John's Newfoundland, one ship and 1 passenger; in Victoria, one ship and 38 passengers; in the West Indies, three ships and 55 passengers, and to South American ports, four ships and 69 passengers. Making a total of 16 ships and 436 passengers. For the quarter ending March there sailed to the United United States 78 ships "under the act," with 75,[illegible] cabin and 21,[illegible] steerage passengers; to New-South Wales, 1 ship, with 340 steerage passengers; to Queensland, 1 ship, with 5 cabin and 173 steerage passengers; to Victoria, 8 ships, with 31 cabin and 1,371 steerage passengers; making a total of 88 ships, 791 cabin and 24,[illegible] passengers, or a grand total of 25,[illegible] emigrants. The number of ships sailing not "under the act," during the three months, were 16 to the United States, with 255 cabin and 317 steerage passengers; to New-Brunswick, 1 ship, 5 cabin and 13 steerage passengers; to Newfoundland, 1 ship, and 7 cabin passengers; to New-South Wales, one ship, 11 cabin and 19 steerage passengers; to Victoria three ships, 9 cabin and 18 steerage passengers; to the West Indies eight ships, and 49 cabin passengers; to South America eleven ships, 69 cabin and 76 steerage passengers; to Africa two ships, and 57 cabin passengers—making a total of 47 ships, 703 cabin and 494 steerage passengers. The total number of emigrants leaving Liverpool during the three months of the present year, in ships under and not under the act, were 26,047, which is an increase over the corresponding quarter of last year of 1,740 souls.

AN OPINION.

The Army and Navy Gazette, in its leader on the American War, says: "We have, through good and evil, held to the faith that the North must succeed; but ignorance and incapacity, traitors and corruption, may counterbalance all the influences which should operate in producing a natural result. The Union, let us say it for the twentieth time, can never be restored. It begins to be doubtful at last if the means which the Northerners employ to subjugate the South are equal to the work."

PARLIAMENTARY PROCEEDINGS.

THE ATTROGAGENE CONFERENCE.

In the House of Commons, on the 12th, Mr. HENNESSY gave notice of his intention to offer the following resolutions:

"That this House, animated with loyalty for Her Majesty's person and respect for her prerogative, is anxious to give effect to any engagements by which Her Majesty may bind the country in the exercise of her prerogative, by advice of her responsible Ministers. That, whilst it is the duty of Her Majesty's Ministers to advise Her Majesty in the exercise of her prerogative, it is the duty of this House to watch even the acts of her Ministers.

That this House regrets the violation of their engagements by some of the parties to the treaty of 1852, and that in the conference which is about to meet, the questions supposed to be settled by the treaty of 1852 are to be reopened. That Her Majesty be requested not to give her assent to any engagements entered into at the conference until such engagements have been made known to Parliament."

FORCED LABOR ON THE SUEZ CANAL.

Mr. GRIFFITH asked whether the Sultan had recently ordered the Pacha of Egypt to discontinue the supply of forced labor on the works of the Suez Canal.

Lord PALMERSTON said that the Sultan had sent an order that the forced labor should be discontinued in Egypt, as it had long been in all other parts of the Ottoman Empire, but an extension of time had since been granted. It was very much to be regretted, for the sake of important interests in France, as well as in England, that between 20,000 and 30,000 laborers, who might be usefully employed in cultivating cotton, should be now occupied in digging a canal through a sandy desert, and making the harbors deep mud and shallow water.

WRECK OF THE CITY OF NEW-YORK.

Mr. MAGUIRE asked whether it was the intention of the Board of Trade to take immediate measures to remove Daunt's Rock (on which the City of New-York was wrecked) by blowing it up, or to place a lightship with fog-bell and signal gun there.

Mr. M. GIBSON replied that there was no intention to take any steps immediately, for great difference of opinion prevailed with respect to placing a lightship there. An improvement was about to be effected in the light at Roche's Point, which would indicate the position of Daunt's Rock to a vessel approaching Cork harbor. In reply to a further question from Mr. MAGUIRE, Mr. GIBSON said that a private survey was, he believed, being made to ascertain the feasibility of blowing up Daunt's Rock. It was between four or five miles distant from Cork harbor.

MUTILATION OF SCHOOL REPORTS.

Lord R. CECIL moved that in the opinion of this House the mutilation of the reports of Her Majesty's House Inspectors of Schools and the exclusion from them of statements and opinions adverse to the educational views entertained by the Committee of Council, while matter favorable to them is admitted, are violations of the understanding under which the appointment of the Inspectors was originally sanctioned by Parliament, and tend entirely to destroy the value of their reports.

Mr. LOWE denied that he had mutilated, garbled, or suppressed the reports of the Inspectors.

The motion was carried by 101 to 67—a majority of against Government, which was received with loud cheers from the Opposition.

ARRIVALS OF COTTON.

Correspondence of the Manchester Examiner.

LIVERPOOL, Monday, April 11, 1864.

The amount of cotton arriving in the Mersey from India and China was never more plentiful than at present. Since Saturday no less than 80,052 bales of cotton arrived in Liverpool, from Bombay and China ports, Shanghai and Hong Kong. The cotton from Bombay was carried in 12 ships, viz: The Gunmerles, with 2,254 bales; Beeston Castle, with 2,419 bales; E. Drody, with 2,943 bales; Hindostan, with 6,007 bales; the Estes Family, with 10,921 bales, the largest quantity ever brought to Liverpool in one vessel; the Victoria Bridge, with 415 bales; the Charger, with 2,781 bales; the Jane J. Mitchell, with 4,551 bales; the Sir J. Mantzville, with 2,706 bales; the Malvaria, with 2,556 bales; the Flying Venus, with 6,022 bales; and the Rosaurora, with 1,336 bales; making a total of 60,912 bales of cotton from Bombay. From Shanghai there were four arrivals, viz: The Rhine, with 2,930 piculs or bales of cotton; the Glen Huntly, with 4,150 piculs; the Rosa Bonheur, with 2,800 piculs; and the Solway, with 9,171 piculs—making a total of 21,260 piculs or bales of cotton from Shanghai. From Hong Kong there were only two arrivals, viz: The Falcon, with 3,304 piculs, and the Light of the Age, with 2,408 piculs, or a total of 5,712 piculs or bales of cotton from Hong Kong. There have also been 12 arrivals from Matamoras, Nassau and Bermuda; and as nearly all these vessels will be laden with "blockade run" cotton, the total amount received in Liverpool for the last two days from the East and the Confederacy will be little short of 96,000 bales.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Morning Herald states that Lord CLARENDON'S mission to Paris is for the purpose of restoring more amicable relations between England and France, and dispelling the irritation recently manifested by the Emperor.

The West India mail steamer had arrived at Southampton with $2,061,605 in specie. She took to England very encouraging accounts relative to cotton cultivation in Guatemala and in Jamaica.

A Parliamentary return shows that the number of rifles and muskets exported from Liverpool to Federal ports in 1861 was 18,146, while in 1862 it amounted to 196,053.

The Star says Lord PALMERSTON has offered the place of Dep. Ex. Bankers to Mr. HAYES, M. P. for Sligo. Mr. HAYES has not yet been able to accept it, owing to the pressure of private business and the state of his health. There are rumors that Mr. FARWICK, M. P. for Sunderland, has been offered the appointment.

GENERAL NEWS.

THE MEXICAN QUESTION.

RECEPTION OF THE DEPUTATION AT MIRAMAR.

The Memorial Diplomatique gives a long account of the reception of the Mexican deputation at Miramar. As the Archduke always throws open his park to the public on holidays, an immense crowd collected to witness the arrival of the procession. The account says:

Your carriages, belonging to his Imperial Highness, preceded by outriders, went to convey the deputation from the hotel where they had lodged at the expense of the archduke. The deputation was composed of M. GUTIERREZ DE ESTRADA, the President; Col. VELASQUEZ DE LEON, ex-Minister; M. ARCHAR, ex-Charge d'Affaires; Gen. WOLL; M. REMION, banker, and M. LAMBA, merchant. A number of distinguished Mexicans, among whom were M. ARRANGOIS, ex-Minister of Finance; M. MURPHY, formerly Mexican Envoy at London; Col. FAVIO, M. GUTIERREZ DE ESTRADA, Jr., with several Generals, Colonels, and other officers, accompanied the deputation. All were in full uniform, as were also the officers of the household of the Archduke, aide-de-camp, and the chamberlains. The deputation, after being received by Count ZICHY, who filled the functions of Grand Master of the household of his Imperial Highness, were introduced into the grand drawing-room, into which the Archduke MAXIMILIAN, wearing the uniform of an Austrian Vice-Admiral, immediately afterward entered. The French and Belgian Ministers in Austria were present at the solemnity. M. GUTIERREZ DE ESTRADA then delivered a speech in the Spanish language, expressing the joy felt by the Mexican deputation in finding themselves in the presence of His Imperial Highness; they had come in the name of the imperial regency to announce that the vote of the notables which had conferred the crown on him is henceforth ratified by the enthusiastic adhesion of the immense majority of the country; the unanimous acclamation of the notables of Mexico, of the municipal authorities, and of the popular corporations, has become a truly national vote.

The Archduke then made the following reply:

"After a mature examination of the act of acceptance of the Mexican crown, which you have submitted to me, I have come to the conviction that the resolution of the Mexican notables has been confirmed by an overruling majority of the inhabitants of that country. Such being the case, the first of the conditions for which I stipulated on the 3d October has been fulfilled. The second condition—that a guarantee of the independence and welfare of the country should be placed on a firm basis—has been secured by the Emperor NAPOLEON, who throughout has been animated by a spirit of sincerity and kindness which I shall never forget. The illustrious head of my family has also given his consent. I now solemnly declare my acceptance of the crown you have offered to me. Mexico is entitled to select a Government corresponding to her wishes and her requirements. This confidence shall not be misplaced. I assume the constitutional power intrusted to me by the nation. I will retain it as long as it may be necessary to establish a state of legal security, and completely to organize liberal institutions. I shall hasten to place the monarchy under the authority of constitutional laws, so soon as the pacification of the country shall be accomplished. Executive power strictly defined is better secured than when a matter of uncertainty; and I will defend it in such a manner as shall be a guarantee of the stability of the Government. I hope to be enabled to prove that well regulated liberty is compatible with order. I will also uphold with equal energy the fact of independence. I desire the assistance of every Mexican to support me in accomplishing my splendid task. Union will make us strong. My Government, I repeat it, will not forget the gratitude due to the illustrious Prince, by whom alone the regeneration of Mexico has been rendered possible. On my journey to Mexico I shall visit Rome, to receive the blessing of the Holy Father, which to me is doubly important."

The account then goes on to say:

As soon as the Archduke had uttered the last word, the deputation and all the Mexicans present acclaimed their newly-sovereign by crying out three times, "God save the Emperor MAXIMILIAN I." "God save the Empress Charlotte." At the same instant, salutes of artillery, fired from the bastions of the castle, announced to the public the accession of the Archduke MAXIMILIAN to the throne of Mexico, and were immediately followed by other salutes from the port and town of Trieste. Then M. GUTIERREZ DE ESTRADA, as president of the deputation, returned thanks to His Majesty for his definitive acceptance of the Mexican crown. He said: "Sire, this complete and absolute acceptation on the part of your Majesty is the prelude of our happiness; it is the consecration of the salvation of Mexico, of its approaching regeneration, of its future greatness. Every year, on this day, our children will offer up their thanksgivings to Heaven in gratitude for our miraculous deliverance. As for us, Sire, there remains a last duty to perform, and that is to lay at your feet our love, our gratitude, and the homage of our fidelity." On saying these words the President of the deputation bent his knee and kissed the hand of the new Sovereign, according to Spanish custom, as a mark of homage. His example was followed by all the Mexicans present. A procès-verbal of the acceptance of the crown of Mexico having been drawn up, the Emperor MAXIMILIAN first affixed his signature to it, after which the members of the deputation did the same, and lastly the notable Mexicans. That ceremony having been accomplished, the deputation proceeded into the apartments of the Princess CHARLOTTE, whom they also proclaimed, and rendered homage to her in the same manner. While these things were taking place at Miramar, the news of the proclamation of the Emperor of Mexico had already reached Trieste, and the Vicar had a solemn "Te Deum" of thanksgiving celebrated in the Cathedral at the time at which all the authorities of the town were present. Salutes from the bastions were fired at the same time. On the same day E. VELASQUEZ DE LEON, Minister without portfolio, the Grand Chief of the Military Household, took possession of their respective posts near the person of the Emperor. In the evening there was to be a grand dinner at Miramar, when the new Emperor was to appear for the first time in the uniform of a Mexican Lieutenant-General, mounted on the model of the French army. His Majesty MAXIMILIAN I. will also wear the insignia of the Virgin of La Guadalupa and of the National Order of Mexico. A grand representation and a full dress ball are to be given at the theatre at Trieste by the municipality.

The same journal likewise gives some information as to the settlement of the difference which had arisen concerning the Archduke MAXIMILIAN'S position in the reigning family in Austria. It says:

"To avoid dynastic quarrels and obviate the partition of the patrimonial property of the House of Austria, a family law imposes on every Archduchess contracting marriage the obligation of signing an act of renunciation. By this engagement, she undertaken not to raise for herself or, for her descendants of either sex any pretension to the eventual succession to the throne, nor to any participation in either the endowments raised on the patrimonial property, or the inheritances which might fall to ab intestato. The creation of the patrimonial property dates from the reign of MARIA THERESA. A considerable portion of the family property was set aside for the extraordinary requirement of the different members of the family. The Grand Duke of Tuscany and the Duke of Modena, for example, now receive from that source incomes which could not figure on the budget of the States. Until now these acts of renunciation had only occurred on the marriage of Archdukes. The acceptation of a foreign crown by an Archduke is a fact without precedent in the annals of the house of Hapsburg. Was it advisable to subject the Archduke to the above-mentioned law? A family council, which assembled during the last stay of the Archduke in Vienna took the question into consideration. Different considerations caused the majority of its members to decide in the affirmative. The Archduke MAXIMILIAN is the first scrub. As such, if, which Heaven forbid, the Emperor FRANCIS JOSEPH should die without a male heir, he would be called on by right to the succession to the throne. There was so little time after the return of the Archduke to Vienna from Brussels, where he received the first vote of the Mexican nation, that it was not possible to make all the family arrangements before the time first fixed for receiving the deputation. He was therefore called on to give his adhesion to a copy of the acts of renunciation which the Archduchess usually signed previously to their marriage, and which had always hitherto remained in the same form. In the precipitation which circumstances rendered necessary, the great difference between an Archduke accepting a foreign crown and an Archduchess marrying a foreign Prince had been overlooked. Every Princess by her marriage ceases to belong to the Imperial family, and loses her quality of agnate to such an extent that her heirs are only entitled to the title of cognates. The Archduke MAXIMILIAN, on the contrary, still retained his title of first agnate to the throne, notwithstanding the renunciation. This consideration justifies the objections which the Archduke raised against the document submitted for his signature. Negotiations were found necessary to bring matters to an arrangement. As regards the former, the wording of the act has been completely changed, in order not only to remove whatever might wound the Prince's feelings, but also to mention the spontaneousness of his resolution. As regards the substance, the Prince, having firmly resolved to devote himself to the destinies of the people which has chosen him, renounces for himself and his heirs, of both sexes, all right to the eventual succession to the throne of Austria so long as the new Mexican dynasty shall continue to reign. The renunciation is therefore not absolute. He declaring that the effects of his renunciation will cease so long as his dynasty shall reign, he implicitly deprives himself of the right of abdicating, except under the pressure of causes independent of his will. He also engages to respect accomplished facts in the interior of the Austrian monarchy. After leaving, if during his absence one of his brothers should be called on to succeed to the throne, he would recognize him as legitimate sovereign. We have no need to point out the extent of the concession at the point of view of Mexican interests. But that is not all; the Archduke has made other sacrifices; he has abandoned the half of his apanage, and the whole of his rights of succession ab intestato. The future Empress, as Archduchess, received a sum of 20,000 florins (50,000 francs) as pin-money; wishing to join in the munificence of her august husband, she has also renounced that income. Finally, the difficulties of which we have just pointed out the origin and the resolution, with care, on the whole, only seemed to place more in relief the noble and generous character of the Archduke.

MEETING OF THE MEXICAN BONDHOLDERS.

From the London Star, April 11.

A meeting of the holders of Mexican bonds was held yesterday at the London Tavern, for the purpose of receiving communications from Messrs. BARING BROTHERS & Co., the agents of the bondholders, to receive and consider a proposition from Messrs. GLYN, MILLS & Co., and the International Financial Society, and to decide thereon. There was a very crowded attendance. Mr. J. GAZZE was moved to the Chair.

The Chairman read a letter which had been addressed to Earl RUSSELL by Messrs. BARING BROTHERS & Co., respecting the claims of the British bondholders in Mexico, and the following reply:

FOREIGN OFFICE, March 30.

GENTLEMEN: I am directed by Earl RUSSELL to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 12th inst., regarding the claims of British bondholders in Mexico, and in reply to you to state that until the Archduke MAXIMILIAN is formally acknowledged as Sovereign of Mexico, no official communication can be made to him on the part of Her Majesty's Government. Steps will, however, be taken to bring the matter to the knowledge of His Imperial Highness. I am, Gentlemen, your most obedient servant.

(Signed,) A. B. LAYARD.

The room having become inconveniently crammed a loud clamor was raised to adjourn to a larger apartment, and after much confusion the desired adjournment was resolved upon, and a dreadful rush took place over chairs and tables to the large room up stairs, where the business was resumed, but where, it may be mentioned, no accommodation whatever was provided for the members of the press, some of whom, after battling their way from one room to another, found themselves without even the accommodation of a chair, and it became no easy task to hear what was going on, or to secure a peep at the necessary documents. Instead, from beginning to end, there was no little amount of confusion.

The Chairman resumed the business by reading a communication from Messrs. GLYN, MILLS & Co., and by explaining the principal points of the proposal made by the Emperor MAXIMILIAN of Mexico. It was understood to be as follows: "To pay in cash within two months one overdue coupon of £1 10s. for every £100 bond; to convert the remaining overdue coupons into a 3 per cent. stock, at 60, bearing interest from the first of January last, with 10 coupons being overdue, will amount, for every £100 bond, to a new loan for £47 10s.; to retain out of the proceeds of the new loan a sufficient sum for two years' dividends on the old bonds, and on the new bonds representing the arrears of interest, the first such dividend being on the 1st July next, and all the rights and securities belonging to the old 3 per cent. bonds under section of October, 1859, being retained intact. The Chairman then pronounced that this meeting, having considered the proposal made on behalf of the Emperor MAXIMILIAN by Messrs. GLYN, MILLS & Co., and the International Financial Association, accept the same, and request the Chairman to communicate such acceptance to Messrs. GLYN, MILLS & Co., and the International Financial Association."

A bondholder proposed an amendment accepting the proposal conditionally, but it was not put to the meeting, and, after some discussion, the resolution proposed by the Chairman was put and carried.

The Chairman next proposed that the Emperor MAXIMILIAN be requested to give instructions as early as possible for the completion of the conversion of the outstanding bonds and certificates, and for which the amount of money required and the bonds for confirmation are in the hands of the respective agents, through whom such confirmations were effected.

This was also agreed to.

On the motion of the Chairman, it was further resolved that the Emperor MAXIMILIAN, as a matter of justice and honor, be requested to give instructions as early as possible for conversion of the £454,350 deferred bonds excluded from conversion by the act of the Mexican Government, who, having issued an excess of this amount of deferred bonds, shut out from conversion the like number, and in most instances excluded the old deferred bonds by the latter issues. That the sum of £454,350 deferred bonds ought to be converted into £260,610 3 per cent. bonds, and the dividend, amounting to £18 18s. per cent. paid on the £10,941,650 3 per cent. be paid thereon, which would amount to £10,206 6s. 9d. in cash. That the £260,610 3 per cent. bonds, when converted, ought to be practical for in the like manner as the other 3 per cent. bonds—viz., sinking and a half years' dividends in arrears up to the 1st January, 1864, to be funded into a 3 per cent. stock, at the rate of £47 10s. each £100 stock, and to be entitled to the cash dividend of £1 10s. per cent., and to two years—namely, 6 per cent. to be reserved for dividends. And that Messrs. BARING BROTHERS & Co., and Messrs. GLYN, MILLS & Co. be requested to press these matters upon the consideration of the Emperor.

It was then resolved that Messrs. BARING BROTHERS & Co. be requested to pay £1,500 to Mr. NELSON, the late Secretary to the company in London, and £1,400 to Mr. WURTEMAN, the Commissioner in Mexico, for the bondholders, for their respective services.

After a cordial vote of thanks to the Chairman, the meeting separated.

AUSTRIAN SOLDIERS FOR MEXICO.

The Military Gazette, of Vienna, states that FRANCIS JOSEPH has authorized the raising in the interior of the Empire of a corps of 6,000 volunteers for Mexico, and also of 500 sailors. This corps, which is in course of formation, will consist of three battalions of infantry, a regiment of hussars, a regiment of Uhlans, a company of pioneers, and a battery of artillery. The officers will be selected, on their own demand, from the Austrian army. The officers who shall present themselves voluntarily will enter the Mexican Army with one grade higher, and a return to the Austrian army will be open to them for six months; but after this period they will have lost all rights as respects their military position in their country. 300 officers will be required, and it is said that 200 have already offered themselves.

WHERE MAXIMILIAN IS TO LEAVE.

A telegram of the 12th from Madrid announces that the brothers of the Emperor MAXIMILIAN was rapidly improving, and that he and the Empress would probably quit Miramar en route for Mexico on the 14th of April. The Emperor had made several appointments, including M. VELASQUEZ as Minister of the Household, Count WOLL, Adjutant-General and Private Secretary; M. SCHERNHERSCHEN, Counsellor of State, &c.

THE DANISH WAR.

MILITARY OPERATIONS.

The following telegrams show the course of events at the siege of Duppel:

COPENHAGEN, Monday, April 11.

A violent fire was uninterruptedly kept up by the enemy until 7 A. M. yesterday. Twenty of our men were wounded.

GRATZ, Monday, April 11.

The Danish batteries have been silenced, several heavy pieces of ordnance have been dismounted, and much of the upper part of the intrenchments, from No. 4 to No. 6, has been shot away.

The Duppel windmill, which served the Danes both as a powder magazine and observatory, has been destroyed.

The Prussian troops in Jutland have advanced Northward. They drove the Danes out of Horsens after a short engagement, and subsequently advanced, by way of Hemsted.

COPENHAGEN, Monday, April 11.

The fire from the Duppel batteries was to-day very feeble; three of them were quite silent. The Danes are preparing to evacuate the intrenchments.

THE CONFERENCE.

The Conference had not assembled in London.

Prussia will be represented at the Conference by Count BISMARCK, the Ambassador in London, and Herr VON BALLAN, former Minister Plenipotentiary at Copenhagen.

La France states that the Prince de la Tour d'Auvergne will be the only Plenipotentiary of France at the Conference.

IMPORTANT DEBATE ON THE DANISH QUESTION.

In the House of Lords, April 12, Lord STRATHEDEN called attention to the correspondence in reference to the Dano-German question, and moved that in the opinion of the House, if the demand made by Denmark for mediation according to the principle laid down in the protocol of Paris in 1856 had been more decidedly supported by her Majesty's Government, the bloodshed and the other evils already occasioned by the war in Denmark might have been prevented, and there would have been less danger than there now is of a more extensive disturbance of the peace of Europe; and that a conference upon the Danish question, in order to lead to a practical result, ought to be accompanied by such a course as might convince the Powers of Europe that Her Majesty's Government adhered to the treaties in which the Duchy of Schleswig had been guaranteed to Denmark by Great Britain.

The Duke of Argyll was at a loss to know how the Government could have prevented war by threatening to take part in it; yet that was what the noble Lord meant, if he meant anything.

Earl GREY was not prepared to say that Denmark was not wholly to blame. If, since 1852, she had governed the Duchies in a wise and more conciliatory spirit, the present crisis would never have arisen. As, however, there were probably faults upon both sides, a conference might be desirable. At the same time, he was convinced that such a course would have been no war had the English Government pursued a firmer line of policy. The noble Earl then deprecated the manner in which the war had been conducted by Austria and Prussia, and characterized it as a barbarous, savage, most wanton, and gratuitous outrage upon the feelings of the Danish people.

Earl RUSSELL was of opinion that the arrangement of 1851 between Denmark and Germany was most complicated and unfortunate, and that all the difficulties which had sprung up within the last ten years were traceable to it. Denmark had not strictly fulfilled her engagement to Schleswig. On the other hand, Germany had on several occasions made propositions which it was impossible for Denmark to entertain, and which, if accepted, would have interfered not less with the independence but the integrity of Denmark. The unfortunate state of affairs went on, neither party coming together right, until the 1st of October last, when Germany resolved on enforcing federal execution, and Her Majesty's Government had endeavored to so connect both parties that a mutually satisfactory result might be arrived at. These efforts toward this object had, however, been unsuccessful. The noble Earl denied that there was anything vacillating in their policy, and said it would have been one of serious and would perhaps have entailed enormous expense on the country, had Her Majesty's Government committed it to hostilities without having the assistance of the other Powers who were signatories to the treaty of 1852. By the firmness and moderation of their language they had extracted from the German Powers a declaration that, notwithstanding the war, the treaty of 1852 would be adhered to, and the independence and integrity of Denmark maintained.

The Earl of Derby concurred with the Foreign Secretary in thinking that the true policy of this country was essentially a policy of peace; but, unlike the noble Earl, he did not regard the matter from an economical point of view.

Lord WODEHOUSE observed that when he represented this country at Copenhagen he constantly endeavored to press upon the Danes the fact that they were not likely to receive material aid from England. He believed it would have been far better for Denmark to have made, lately concessions that to have provoked war, but unfortunately all her concessions came too late.

Earl GRANVILLE said with regard to the conference, that most of the great Powers who had consented to send representatives to it, including Austria, were agreed that the first act of the assembly must be the immediate establishment of an armistice.

Lord STRATHEDEN withdrew his motion, and their lordships adjourned at 10¾ o'clock.

FRANCE.

The Paris Bourse on the 12th opened heavy, but became firmer, and Rentes closed at 69.90.

GREECE.

The Ministry had tendered, but subsequently withdrew, their resignation.

Disturbances had taken place between the Catholics and the Greeks in Syra, but they were not of a political character.

INDIA, CHINA, AUSTRALIA.

The mails from Calcutta to March 10, Hong Kong March 1, and Melbourne Feb. 25, are received. The commercial news has been anticipated, and, politically, there is nothing of importance. The new Japanese Embassy to Europe, consisting of 35 persons, had arrived at Hong Kong.

The telegraph cable, was laid from Bombay to the head of the Persian Gulf.

THE NEW TAX BILL.

Commercial Brokers Urge Strong Protest Against the Heavy Tax on Commissions.

The regular Commercial Brokers are much exercised by what they denounce as the oppressive and vexatious tax, which the framers of the new Internal Tax Bill, now before Congress, propose to impose on their particular interest. It is charged that in addition to license, stamp, income, and other arbitrary taxes, the amended tax bill contemplates a direct tax of at least an average of 20 per cent of all commissions derived from the sale or purchase of produce and merchandise; and that accordingly in the end, no such burthen is to be imposed on any other class of business men.

A day or two since, the Produce Brokers, doing business at the Produce Exchange, met for consideration of this matter, and how best to secure such reasonable modifications of such provisions of the bill as may well severely on them. A committee was appointed and instructed to report at a subsequent meeting.

Yesterday, at the close of regular business of the Produce Exchange, the Flour, Grain, Whisky and Provision Brokers organized another meeting, by appointing Mr. E. HAYNOR WHITE, Chairman, and Mr. CHARLES TAYLOR, Secretary. The chairman explained the object of the meeting, stating that he had been in correspondence with Hon. FERNANDO WOOD, on subject to the subject, and that prompt action was indispensable.

Mr. GEORGE MCGRATH, Chairman of the Committee of Produce Brokers, read the report from his committee, in the interest of the gentlemen he represented. The report was unanimously received, and adopted.

The committee appointed at a meeting of the Produce brokers, to report to the meeting of Commercial brokers what effect the proposed additional tax of 5 upon every $1,000 of sales would have upon the business of the Produce brokers, reported as follows:

The Produce Brokers now pay a tax of $100 for a license as commercial brokers, and 3 per cent upon their earnings if under $10,000, and 5 per cent if over that sum. But the present amendment, they will pay from 20 to 40 per cent upon their earnings, a rate which will be paid by no other class of citizens, and which they claim to be oppressive and unjustly discriminating against them. They further urge, and the committee, with pleasure do so, more than refer to the fact, that all the goods sold by produce brokers have already paid one tax, and in some cases several times to the Government before they reached the brokers hands. One tax is paid for slaughtering, and every dealer who makes a profit on the product pays a tax as an income tax. But it is important to remember that the broker already pays still another tax of either three or five per cent upon his income, according to the value of the same property, and by the new proposal there be about double the remainder with the Government, in some cases paying one-fifth and four-fifths of all his earnings, as will appear by the comparison of the rate of brokerage charged on the sale of produce, and the percentage on the value of the goods sold, and this sum is frequently reduced by special bargaining and at large amounts to a still smaller arbitrary sum, which in some cases, under the proposed amendment, would all go to the Government. The committee cannot believe that Congress will impose so unjustly discriminating a tax upon the industry, and thus the committee would ask the attention of the Committee of Ways and Means to the fact, and that it is only necessary to have the attention of the measure called to the subject to have the amendment applied.

GEORGE MCGRATH,
E. H. BAKER,
E. H. MCDONALD.

The report was unanimously adopted, and the chairman and secretary, when a motion was offered and adopted, proceeded to the appointment of a representative committee of all branches of business, and the Produce Exchange, also power to confer with delegates from other commercial and commercial brokers, and to appoint general channels to Congress, to modify or produce the proposed amendment of the Internal Tax Bill, and generally urging their modification. The chairman having been given the appointment of the committee, E. E. Collins, W. R. McDowell, John F. Coster, Charles Wm. Matthews, Simon Chance, Lewis Lewis, and George McGrath. Thereupon the meeting adjourned.

One tax is paid for slaughtering, and every dealer who makes a profit on the product pays a tax as an income tax. NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

A special dispatch to the Gazette, from Chattanooga, says on the 23d the rebels attacked our pickets near Nickajack Gap, killing five, wounding seven and capturing nineteen. Some of our men were killed after surrendering, and several of the wounded were cruelly butchered as they lay on the field.

The United States steamer Greyhound has been sent up the James River from Fortress Monroe to City Point, to order down the two French steamers and two sailing vessels there after tobacco. The vessels were to be back to Hampton Roads yesterday without any tobacco.

The blockade-runner Vance, from Wilmington via Nassau, arrived at Halifax on Tuesday, 26, she was chased twice since leaving Nassau. Once a gunboat was within a mile of her. She reports that the blockade-runner Will-o-the-Wisp was going into Wilmington when she came out.

A Newbern letter to the Boston Traveller says that night or nine other officers and men were wounded on board the Miami by the recoil of the shell which killed Capt. Freeman. The writer also says the same gun was then loaded with solid steel-pointed shot, and several times discharged upon the ram, but without effect—the terrible missiles glancing harmlessly from the well-protected roof of the iron-clad. The fleet will engage the ram should it make its appearance at the mouth of the river, or in the Sound, where they could have sea room to fight. The ram is described as about 140 feet long, with an oval roof, much like the back of a turtle, and so strong in timber and plating as to be impervious to hundred-pound, steel-pointed, solid shot, at a distance of not more than twenty feet. She draws but five feet of water, and is about that distance out of water.

Official dispatches received at Washington, according to the correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger, render it improbable that the fleet under Porter could have participated in the attack upon Shreveport, even had our infantry and cavalry forces reached that point, as the rebels had so blockaded the river that an approach to within greater distance would probably have been impossible. From all appearances, the object of the enemy was to get our vessels in their net of destruction. The Osage was aground and underwent a severe fire, but in how far she was damaged, has not been learned.

Messrs. Ward and Gooch, the Sub-Committee on the Conduct of the War, who went to Cairo and vicinity to investigate the facts concerning the Fort Pillow massacre, have telegraphed to Washington that their investigations have been completed, and they are expected to return and report at once, when the Government will determine upon the character of its retaliatory measures.

FROM EUROPE.

The steamship City of Baltimore, from Liverpool, April 13, via Queenstown, April 14, and the steamship Bremen, from Southampton, April 15, arrived at this port yesterday, bringing three days' later news. Garibaldi had entered London, and had been received with great pomp and consideration by both nobility and people. He had been entertained by the Duke of Sutherland, had called on Lord Palmerston, and was soon to dine with him. In the British House of Lords the Government had been defeated on an unimportant question. The Conference on the Danish question had not yet met, and the opponents of the Government were predicting no favorable results from it. The siege of Duppel was progressing slowly. Several assaults had been made by the Prussians, in which the Danes claim to have repulsed them. The allies, however, assert that some of the Duppel batteries are silent, and that the Danes are preparing to evacuate the intrenchments. Maximilian had received the Mexican Deputation at Miramar, and in a speech accepting the Mexican Crown expressed his belief that the tender of the sceptre of Mexico was by the wish of an overwhelming majority of its people. The steamship City of New-York still lay on Daunt's Rock, all efforts to raise her having been unsuccessful.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate yesterday, the National Currency Bill was under consideration at length, but no conclusion was reached. Several bills of commercial interest were passed, and petitions presented from the wives, widows, mothers and sisters of soldiers, praying for an increase of the soldier's pay.

In the House the Tax Bill was taken up and considered vigorously, progress being made to the 110th section. The joint resolution from the Senate appropriating $25,000,000 to pay the expenses of the one-hundred-day troops was passed. A bill was also passed to increase the pay of Inspectors of Customs, provided it do not exceed $4 per day.

GENERAL NEWS.

Yesterday Comptroller Barnard obtained certified copies of the City and County Tax Laws for 1864, which he sent a messenger to Albany to get, who was obliged to make the requisite copies in the office of the Secretary of State to secure them early, and to-day they will be submitted to the Common Council, accompanied with appropriate ordinance, in conformity with the figures contained in them. To receive them the Board of Aldermen are to meet specially at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The Comptroller's estimates were—for the City, $6,045,268 88; for the County, $5,464,953 65—total, $13,490,227 83. The Tax Levy, to be imposed by the Board of Supervisors in July, exclusive of the three per cent. authorized by law to be added for fractional and other deficiencies, or of judgments for which the Tax Laws provide admission, will be $14,457,419 88, or $959,192 35 in excess of the Comptroller's estimates, made up as follows: City, already appropriated by authority of laws previous to 1864, $4,610,745 21; authorized by the Tax Law of 1864, $3,801,417 02—total, $8,412,162 23. County, already appropriated by authority of laws previous to 1864, $4,796,917 49; authorized by the Tax Law of 1864, $1,248,249 16—total, $6,045,257 65. Grand total of City and County, as above, $14,457,419 88. The rate of tax last year was 2,035, or $2 35 on each $100 of valuation. The rate for 1864, as premised in the Times early this year, will be full 2½ per cent.

On Tuesday night a serious shooting affray occurred at the corner of Avenue C and Twelfth-street. From the Police reports it appears that a gang of men and boys congregated on the corner, blocked up the walk, and disturbed the entire neighborhood with loud, vulgar and profane language. Officer Perrine requested them to desist, when they made violent demonstrations toward him. He thereupon undertook to arrest one of the ringleaders, named Patrick Healy. The band undertook to rescue the prisoner, and made violent demonstrations toward the officer. The latter believing his life in imminent danger, drew his revolver and shot one of the leaders, and James Farry. The ball took effect in the left breast, inflicting what is believed to be a fatal wound. Another version of the affair is that the officer did not attempt to make an arrest before he shot Farry, and that he had no provocation whatever for committing the deed. A warrant has been issued for the arrest of the officer.

Flour and Wheat were quiet and depressed, yesterday. Corn was in brisk demand, chiefly on speculation, at advanced prices. Most of the purchases were effected on account of a Philadelphia house. Provisions were in less demand and heavy. Cotton, Metals and Groceries were held with more firmness, with a moderate inquiry. Fruit, Hay and Whisky were in good request, the latter closing heavily. The auction sales of Scranton coal resulted in an average advance of about 35 cents per ton on last month's prices. Freights were quiet, with 558 vessels in port. Commercial brokers were much exercised by certain obnoxious clauses in the Tax Bill before Congress, and held a meeting at the Produce Exchange to memorialize for what they called reasonable modifications.

The demand for Money was active yesterday, at 7 ℘ cent. The Railway speculation on the Stock Exchange closed weak. Gold fell off 1 ℘ cent. The Customs Duties in Gold were again very large.

Congress on Taxation—Its Freaks and Fallacies.

The people of the North can, we are firmly persuaded, bear with ease twice as great burdens in the shape of debt and taxation as were ever imposed on any other people of the same size, as long as these burdens are fairly and equitably imposed, as long as proper pains are taken to avoid violent changes of policy, and violent disturbances of trade and industry. We are, therefore, still far from doubting our ability to pay all we now owe and a great deal more, if the National Legislature only displays common sense, and even third-rate business capacity. But if anything could lead us to fear a financial crash it would be such bits of legislation as the resolutions adding fifty per cent. to the import duties for sixty days, without even two days' notice to the public. There is hardly a single rule of taxation which this does not violate. There is a suddenness and capriciousness about it, which entitles it rather to be classed amongst the means of raising revenue resorted to by Turkish Pachas than those of an enlightened Constitutional Government. It deranges the whole course of foreign trade, without the slightest warning; destroys the calculations of all those who have already sent their orders abroad, as well as of those who have cargoes on the way home; fills the minds of home dealers with confusion and uncertainty as to the stock they have on hand; leaves them totally unable to decide what they had better ask for it, or when, or on what terms they can renew it; and what is worse than all this, it fills the whole community with apprehension and doubt about the future—a feeling which does more than any other to paralyze industry; for there is no telling what freak a body which has been guilty of this one will be guilty of next. In short, these resolutions bring in a state of things bearing the closest resemblance to the rule of a military dictator given to raising forced loans by fits and starts.

And what is all this for? Why, to lower the price of gold, and sustain the Government credit, as if uncertainty was not the great depreciator of the Government paper, or, as if the price of gold could be sustained by acts which deranged industry, and threw the whole commercial world into confusion. Fifty per cent. extra suddenly imposed on all imports, relieves nobody, helps nobody, and damages the nation and the Government in estate and reputation.

If it had been imposed on luxuries, silks, wines and jewelry, there would have been some excuse for it; but imposed on everything, it doubles the price of tea, coffee and sugar, and a variety of other necessaries to the poor, both by shutting out foreign products and by compelling home producers to raise their prices as a measure of precaution, not knowing what will come next. Moreover, the Government not only reaps no advantage from it, but loses heavily. Fifty per cent. added to the existing tariff is a prohibitory tax, and will stop importation, thus causing the loss of some millions of duties. And it will certainly, along with such acts as the payment of the New-York State interest in greenbacks, help to damage the national credit in the eyes of foreign capitalists; for who can trust a nation whose finances are in the hands of men who double taxation without notice for a term of sixty days? In what civilized country was such a thing ever heard of?

The end of this session of Congress is clearly to be in keeping with the beginning. They passed three months making bunkum speeches about the right of secession, passing vain resolutions against traitors, totally neglecting the financial situation, perilous as it was, in spite of the entreaties of the press and the public. It was only when gold had reached 189, and people began to talk of national bankruptcy, that it took the alarm, and now, as might have been expected, it is legislating in a panic upon a subject which, of all others, most needs caution, coolness, and deliberation.

The Coming Campaign.

Those most unreliable of news-bearers, the deserters, are now passing to and fro, in large number, from one army to the other. The Northern papers from time to time contain the stories of those who pass hitherward from the rebel lines, and the Southern papers, in like manner, contain the information conveyed by those who decamp from our lines. The Southern deserters, not infrequently, have been confidential friends of Gen. Lee, who took care to tell them just before they left, all his plans and purposes. And some of the deserters from our army, if we may judge by what they tell the rebels, were on such intimate terms with Lieut.-Gen. Grant, that he could unbosom himself in their presence, and tell them all the secrets of his inmost soul. If we might judge, however, of the accuracy of the ordinary rebel deserter's news, by the inaccuracy of that ordinarily conveyed South by the Union deserters, we should not be inclined to credit it implicitly. But by applying to all of it the ordinary rules of evidence and criticism, it is occasionally possible to fasten upon a few facts.

Twenty-five of these Southern gentry arrived within the lines of our army yesterday, and they are unanimous in asserting that Gen. Lee has of late been receiving heavy reinforcements—which is a statement we are quite willing to credit just as it stands; for we have had a great deal of proof lately that both Beauregard and Longstreet have been sending or bringing on all available troops from South Carolina and Tennessee; while the conscripts from the camps all over the South have likewise been forwarded to Virginia. Lee, as well as Grant, is concentrating forces. The action on the part of one necessitates similar action on the part of the other. When it is completed on both sides, the war-worn soil of Eastern Virginia will have encamped upon it two hostile armies, greater even than any of the vast masses who have ever before fought over its fields. The determination on the part of the rebels is not less than the determination on our part to make the campaign of the coming Summer decisive. The war will not, on either side, be directed primarily to the mere possession of given bits of territory. It will be a struggle of two great armies to destroy each other. The rebels have given up all hope of covering the vast territory they claim, and defending it with small and detached bodies. They now believe that a decisive victory over Grant will settle all disputed questions of territory, as we believe that the crushing of Lee's army will be the conquest of the entire South. It is well that the war has at last taken this shape.

The rebels are evidently greatly mystified as to the programme of Gen. Grant—not less so than the people of the North as to what is Lee's programme. When McClellan was on the Peninsula, it was easy enough for them to know what he must do. When Burnside and Hooker were encamped opposite Fredericksburgh, the rebels knew that these Generals would either have to cross the river and attack them in position, or would have to move their army on to some new and distant line. But they are in utter darkness as to Grant's line or plan of operations; and his forces are fortunately so planted that they are not likely to divine his programme until he himself shall astonish them by its unfolding. We publish on our ninth page an article from the Richmond Examiner, which argues that the Summer campaign will not open in Virginia at all, but in the Southwest, and that Grant will "sweep down upon Johnston while the public in Virginia are straining their eyes to see his advance, or their ears to hear the distant thunders of his approach."

One of the twenty-five deserters that arrived yesterday, and who left Lee's lines as late as Monday, asserts that much of the heavy artillery of the rebel army had been sent back to Richmond, and that the belief was current among Lee's soldiers that an early retrograde movement would be made upon the rebel Capital. Though this statement, unlike the one previously discussed, is only confirmed by one out of the twenty-five deserters, it is none the less possible that it is true. Lee has a position on the Rapidan almost impregnable to direct assault, but he can by no means make sure that Grant will march up and assault it, though he is doubtless quite sure that it is possible for Grant to turn it. If Lee, however, falls back behind the immense defences of Richmond, he can be certain that he will have the opportunity of fighting behind his fortifications. On the whole, it would be the best thing that Lee could do; and it would be the best thing for Grant that he should do it. So it is as well to fancy that this is Lee's programme until another rebel deserter informs us that it is not.

Divine Right and Popular Rights.—Maximilian, it seems, does not claim that he is to rule Mexico by Divine right; but in his speech to the so-called Mexican deputation, he has a great deal to say about the new doctrine of which certain European tyrants are now-a-days canting—the doctrine of the rights of the people in the choice of their rulers. He gives in his adhesion to this doctrine no less than thrice. He says he has come to the conviction that "an overruling majority of the inhabitants of Mexico" are resolved to have him for their Emperor; but makes no allusion to the forty thousand French bayonets and the large French fleet which have been and still are used for keeping the Mexicans to that resolution. He says [illegible] a Government corresponding to the wishes of a majority of the nation, but makes no reference to the fact that it is for that privilege the Mexicans are still struggling, and that for this reason a foreign soldiery is waging a relentless war against them. A third time he returns to the idea, when he says that he "assumes the constitutional power intrusted to him by the nation;" but even here he makes no allusion to the fact that he is engaged in raising an army of mercenaries in Europe to sustain his pretensions in Mexico.

Maximilian would have appeared to more advantage had he altogether repudiated this thrice repeated cant, and boldly claimed that his right to rule the Mexicans was of Divine origin.

The Moral Police of Society.

One occurrence connected with the massacre at Fort Pillow, has aroused a more than usually deep feeling of indignation through all the loyal States. It is related that a United States officer, coming on a flag-of-truce boat to take away the wounded, after the butchery, was so far forgetful of his position and honor, as to entertain in the most cordial manner, these barbarians just red with the blood of their horrible murders. We notice this reported fact here, not to remind the Government of its duty—as we know that no one would be quicker than Gen. Grant or the Secretary of War to punish such disgraceful connivance with crime in an army officer—but to call attention to a broader fact, of which it is an indication.

There is in our people, especially in our public men, a certain want of a stern moral judgment on disgraceful offences, and a lack of sensitiveness to public honor. It must be remembered that in every civilized society there are certain offences which cannot be punished by the law, or if they are, are only inadequately atoned for. When a wealthy man, for instance, has cheated or wronged the poor—when an influential citizen has committed some crime, from whose consequences he has escaped by the lapse of time or by some evident legal technicality, or when a political leader has been false to his country, and has risked great interests in a period of trial, there are no suitable punishments for such crimes. They are outside of the pale of the law and courts. Yet the interests of society demand that such offences should be especially punished. They are the very sins which do the most damage, and sap public morals, if left unwhipped of justice.

There is need, for such offenders, of a moral police of society. Now it is precisely in this very kind of police that American society is most deficient. We are a very good natured people. We are in the habit of permitting all kinds of opinion amongst us, and of interfering as little as possible with individuals, and we have an overweening admiration for success, so that our toleration has come to be almost a vice. We bear with successful roguery, or even treat it so respectfully that the young must sometimes almost doubt which is most courted—honor or dishonor. A democracy is said to be less sensitive to personal honor than an aristocracy, but yet its public opinion, when once formed, is the most terrible avenger and tyrant. No punishment for traitors and successful rogues could ever be invented, so cruel as the opinion of a democratic society, if it was once properly trained. We know, indeed, that now there are honored circles of American society, where doubtful characters, and those who have won wealth and name by foul means, cannot enter. But the general and public sentence on such men is by no means strict enough. We are too charitable or indifferent by half.

We ought not to cover up rascality by fine names. However successful, or however rich a man is, if he has come up through dishonor, it should never be forgotten by honorable men. These men who are attempting to undermine the Government at the North, and rouse up the ignorant against the law, are in so far traitors, and ought to be treated so socially. It should be understood in parlors and at dinner-tables, that we do not companion with treasonable men. And yet hundreds of respectable people are constantly neglecting this, and inviting loyal and honorable citizens to sit down with those who have broken faith with their country. It may be said that this strictness would become bigotry. Well, in such a struggle as this between Loyalty and Treason, we ought to be bigoted.

After nearly a quarter of a million of lives have been offered on bloody battle-fields and in hospitals, after three years of terrific war and a vast destruction of property, it ought not to be supposed that to the fomenters of this unhappy struggle, and the abettors of such treason, whether at the North or the South, we could be tolerant. We may forgive the deluded followers, but to the officers and leaders of this rebellion, and their accomplices in the Free States, there ought to be among the gentlemen of the North, no pardon. It should be understood in our clubs and saloons, in private houses and public festivities, whether among army officers or private citizens, that it is not an honorable thing to show hospitalities to, or accept them from, a man who is stained with treason toward his country. There ought to be pride enough and honor enough among our people, to show that we hold treason, and all aiding and abetting of treason, in its deserved contempt. This officer, who dined the rebel butchers near Fort Pillow, of course will receive the execrations of the whole nation. But this is not the first, nor will it be the last, of such toadyism. There is a plenty of it now in this City, toward men who are known to be treasonable to our Government.

Once let it be understood that socially there is an exclusion and condemnation of all known dishonorable and treasonable characters, no matter how successful, and society in America exercises a police jurisdiction over public men which it has never yet held but which it sorely needs.

Movements of Secretary Chase.—Secretary Chase arrived at Philadelphia yesterday, and is stopping at the Continental Hotel.

A Controversy Determined.—The Almond Question was argued in Court at Washington, among the last decisions which they rendered previous to their recent adjournment, rendered one which disposes of the great Almond controversy. The Almond controversy is one well known to our importers, which has been carried on for some years back over the question whether an almond was a fruit or not. It arose in this way: A certain rate of duty had been imposed upon almonds; but in one of the modifications of the revenue laws Congress provided a lower rate of duty for "fruits, green, ripe or dried." It thereupon occurred to some sharp importer that an almond was a fruit, and the point was immediately made that they should thenceforth only pay the reduced rate of duty. The Collectors refused to take this view of the law, but exacted the duty at the former rate, and the consequence was that the importers paid the difference in the duties under protest, and commenced suits to recover them back. There are probably more than a hundred suits now pending in this District arising out of this question. The case has been tried twice in this District, but without arriving at any definite conclusion. On one trial, as we recollect, the attempt was made to prove that an almond was a fruit, by proving the advertisements in the newspapers under the head of "fruit sales," which often contained almonds as one article sold. But on a further investigation, it appeared that another article often advertised at these sales, was sardines, and as the plaintiffs could hardly claim that a sardine was a fruit, even if it was sold at a "fruit sale," they had to give up the claim that selling almonds at "fruit sales" proved them to be "fruit, green, ripe or dry."

The case came up before the Supreme Court from the Massachusetts Circuit, on a certificate of a division of opinion between the Judges. And it is one of the curiosities which sometimes occur in litigation, that the Supreme Court, while they settle the controversy, leave the question on which it arose entirely outside of their decision and undecided. They hold, Judge Nelson delivering the opinion, that whether an almond is a fruit or not, if Congress had meant that almonds should pay a lower rate of duty, they would have said almonds as they had done before, and would not have thought of leaving it to be embraced in the general term of "fruit, green, ripe or dried." We have no hesitation in saying that this decision will commend itself to every one as sensible, unless, perhaps, to some of the plaintiffs in the suits or their attorneys.

AMUSEMENTS.

Winter Garden.—Miss Avonia Jones is not fortunate in the selection of her pieces. Her abilities in comedy are decidedly in keeping in so murky a sphere that is to productive of no result. Plays like "Judith" and the "Sorceress" cannot elevate her to any position in art. Indeed, they are so infinitely beneath her power that we are compelled to ignore their existence when speaking of her merits. The "Sorceress" produced here on Tuesday evening is probably from the French. The question of its paternity is of no importance. It is so far as Miss Jones is concerned—essentially a bad piece. The role of the Sorceress is long-winded, verbose and monotonous. It has no relief. From the opening to the close it presents nothing but words. There is but one phase of emotion—maternal solicitude—and but one passion—revenge. Properly handled, these grand elements of human life and struggle might be made effective; but they are not properly handled. They are worn down to the attenuated tenacity of human patience. If a good sentence occurs it is immediately marred by a dozen sentences that are bad. In two words, the play is dull, and the leading part monotonous. We shall, therefore, more in a great measure to extenuate, and repeat our praises of Miss Jones despite the adverse circumstances that surrounded her performance. The lady has unquestionable talent. Her appearance is pleasing, her bearing self-possessed and easy, her style well-disciplined, if not large. The discipline, to be sure, has in some cases been in a wrong school, but it is still discipline, and touches her the absolute proprietor of the stage. Better than this meagre catalogue of merit is the fact that Miss Jones is thoroughly intelligent, and invariably unknowing of the part intrusted to her care than the author contemplated in writing it—otherwise how watched would have been her fate. In the "Sorceress," she never herself by voice and dissection. There are so many speeches to deliver, that any exceptional burst of passion is out of the question. It is plain, therefore, to say that she succeeds in making little culminations in all these very little speeches, and leaves us with a better opinion of her powers than before they were uttered. The piece succeeded last night by reason of Miss Jones' excellent performance, and because there are two or three scenic situations of great potency with the audience, although of little relative value to the play. The scenery and dresses, we may add, were very good—although in the working of the former there were many mishaps.

The "Sorceress" was a popular success, and will be repeated.

Wallack's Theatre.—"A School for Scandal" was given here last night, with the scenery that always attends its representation at this house. The cast was nearly the same as heretofore, with the exception of two characters, Lady Teazle, sustained by Miss Jane Coombs, and Maria, by Mrs. Jamieson. These parts were previously played by Mrs. Hoey and Miss Hammond. Comparisons are always unamiable, and we prefer, therefore, to simply place on record that Miss Coombs was received with distinguished favor, and after the great scene of the fourth act, was recalled before the curtain. The house was crowded.

Miss Carpenter, who was announced to play at Gottschalk's Brooklyn concert on Tuesday last, was compelled to deny herself that pleasure, in consequence of having no piano at her disposition. It seems that the lady has been accustomed to play on a Steinway instrument, and ordered one to be sent to the Academy, but as the concert seems to have been in interest of another maker, it was not allowed to be placed on the stage. Miss Carpenter declined to risk her reputation by playing on a piano with which she was totally unacquainted.

The piano-forte makers have resumed work—a compromise having been made with the men. The event was commemorated with genial hospitality by Mr. Brambach, on Friday last, when his spacious warerooms were the scene of an artistic festival. A large deputation was present from the musical world, and the best of feeling prevailed.

Mad. Heyesia Sonnerer, played Ophelia, on Saturday, at the Stadt Theatre. We notice that the lady is shortly to appear in a round of her best German characters.

Mr. Robert Heller's Soirées Fantastiques et Musicales, continues to delight large audiences. It is the whitest and best entertainment ever given in this City.

Master Emil Mollenhauer, the wonderful child-violinist, will give a grand musical entertainment at the Brooklyn Athenæum, this evening, assisted by Mrs. Abbot, Mrs. Stephani, Sig. Lotti, Herr Wollisch, Mr. F. Mollenhauer, Mr. J. N. Pohlman, Mr. Wehnemann, and Master Theodore Brelin, (corno, 4-piece.)

Marine Intelligence.

SAN FRANCISCO, Tuesday, April 26.

Arrived, bark Chetah Hall, from Glasgow, in 160 days, with coal.

An overland mail arrived here last night after a trip of thirty-four days.

The receipts of the Custom-House last week were $232,000. In one day $120,000 were taken. This is a greater sum than ever before received in the same period. The receipts for April were $294,722. Most of this large sum has been paid for goods withdrawn from bond, in anticipation of a large increase in duties.

The pieces of the ironclad Comanche have all been recovered, and one of the big guns saved; the other will be also.

The general market for foreign goods is somewhat excited by advices of the increase on all duties. There is great demand for money to pay the duties. Nearly $200,000 were paid at the Custom-house to-day—$75,000 by one firm.

Senor Bocanegra, of Santa Cruz County, have engaged to make a cheese to weigh 20,000 pounds, for the benefit of the Sanitary Fair of this city.

Wheat and flour have advanced.

The Chinese merchants have rescued thirty girls from the hands of kidnappers, who sold them here, and will return them to China.

Large quantities of powder for mining purposes have been surreptitiously shipped to Colorado River, in Arizona.

THE SHAKESPEARE MONUMENT.

The Way to Expedite Its Erection.

There has been no little regret evinced in regard to the manner in which the preliminary job for the laying of the corner-stone of the Shakespeare Monument, on last Saturday, were consummated or omitted. Mr. Hamblin, who for so many, very so many, years has made so much at Falstaff, and have got, had, as it transpired, charge of the matter. While he is entitled to the utmost credit for the active and zealous part he has taken, yet there seems to have been a lack of consideration as to preliminaries, caused unfortunate exclusiveness and haste in regard to them. Shakespeare belongs to all the dramatic world, and so belongs he equally to all the literary. He is of the other quite as much as he is of the city; and in this contemplated tribute to him, the feelings, interest and enthusiasm of both should have been enlisted. Instead of that, the one was only partially consulted and invited, and the other not only was not consulted or invited, but was, if information be correct, purposely ignored. Now this is not referred to in any other than a suggestive way. As above stated, Mr. Hamblin deserves the utmost credit; but errors will occur. "In the best regulated families." Had there been an appeal to all the dramatic and literary world throughout, and more just interests been enlisted, had their joint co-operation been secured, we have no doubt that instead of a gathering of some hundreds in the Central Park on Saturday last, there would have been as many thousands; and that, instead of the laying of the corner-stone with the prospect that it will stay late and unremunerated during the present generation, there would have been the certainty that in a short time the funds would be ample for the rearing and the rearing purchased of a structure worthy of the genius it was intended to honor. As the matter stands now, isolated from the general interest of the two cities which should feel most interested in it, it looks as though the corner-stone was destined to be a buried fact, and the monumental myth. Hosts, Washington, Wallace, Hook and Blanchard, who have equal claims with any in the honor of the movement, have most generously responded to the appeal for the fund, but they should not be called to do more and put the monument where they have given would assume rather a monument beyond Falstaff's shoulders. Now, the suggestion is, that this matter be made not an exclusive, but a general one. In the dramatic circles there is not one from him who narrowly matters to tell "My Lord, the carriage waits," to him who respectfully looks it in the carriage, who would not give his mite if he felt he was invited or expected to do so. Nor is there one in the literary, fine art circles, too, we imagine, whether concerned or not, who would not do likewise. That neither has been taken into proper consideration, immediately, we believe, seems to be true. But all can be remedied, and the movement can be made a fact. If only it be chosen that it shall. Entertainments could be gotten up which would swell the funds beyond mere defraying preliminaries, and the Treasurer, whoever he may be, no one knows yet, would soon be plethoric with the means for the proposed object. These are mere hints, which are believed to be worthy of note. But it is urgent to expect any one man to carry a proposition which has been, and is, reposed upon the will, strength, or resources of Mr. Hamblin. In believing that he will entirely fail if he attempts it.

The Disaster on the Chesapeake.

The investigation into the cause of the latter explosion on board the United States gunboat Chesapeake, was continued before Coroner Nugent and a jury, yesterday, in the Governor's Room of the Brooklyn City Hall. Only two witnesses were examined, and one of them occupied nearly the entire afternoon, and the whole evening until after 11 o'clock. Mr. John Maher, a boiler maker, and employed in the Navy-yard, testified to examining the boiler with the view of ascertaining the extent of damage done; he found it brace proper, and had 50 lbs. hold; there were 64 stays in the upper part of the boiler; the height of the water in the one that exploded was 16 inches below the bottom of the tube-box, which was caused by the pipe being broken off down on the sides. Mr. Edward H. Dorrance then commenced giving testimony, and explained at great length the theory of steam as applied to boilers, and its effect under certain circumstances. To-day Mr. Isherwood, the Engineer-in-Chief of the United States Navy, will give his evidence, also Mr. Montgomery and perhaps one or two others. The Coroner announced that the testimony would be completed in the evening, and that on Friday he would deliver his charge to the jury.

Auction Sale of the Brooklyn Pictures.—The splendid collection which Mr. Bennett has purchased during the past six years, principally from the artist studios in Europe, are to be sold at auction this evening, at the Dominick Gallery. In the collection are to be found many very choice and valuable pictures, among them Couture's "Evening Prayer," a scene on the Campagna, representing an Italian goatherd engaged in prayer; Duval's "Calvary," Knob-Knob's "Landscape, with cattle and figures," an exquisite colored gem which has long been the admiration of connoisseurs and artists. Le Poittevin, represented by three pictures, severally entitled "Sunset, coast of Normandy," with the tide receding; "The Pilot Boat" and "Sunset Sketching," a French pastoral, one of a series illustrating the peculiar style of the artist deceased. Geiser's "Meditation" and the "Watchers" are two fair specimens of this artist. Ten Kate's "Estrement," Carl Becker's "Something Wrong," Tassart's "Homeless and Friendless," Boddington's "Sheep Washing," and "Gipsy Encampment," Couturier's "Chickens," Professor Hildebrandt's "Summer Afternoon," and Springitt's "Dutch Town."

Large Fire in West-street—Loss $30,000.—At a late hour last night a fire broke out on the third floor of the five-story brick building situated on the corner of West and Carlisle streets, in premises occupied by Wm. Rasmus, brass-founder and manufacturer of butts and hinges. From this story the flames rapidly spread throughout the entire building, which was speedily destroyed. The fourth floor was occupied by E. D. Cheney, milliner. The fifth floor was unoccupied, also the first. The second story was occupied by George Gunn as a sailors' boarding house. His loss is about $500; no insurance. Mr. Rasmus's loss is over $2,000; fully insured. Mr. Cheney's loss is about $2,500; partially insured.

The basement was occupied by Henry Funk as a dance house. His loss is about $150; no insurance. The loss on the building is about $15,000, said to be fully insured in City companies.

The adjoining building, No. 81 West-street, took fire on the roof, and was damaged about $200; fully insured. The first floor was occupied by J. L. Simmons, saloon-keeper. The damage to his stock, by water, will amount to about $2,000; fully insured. The third floor was occupied by J. & W. Paxanos, riggers. Their loss, by water, is $300. The third floor was occupied by Henry Gillian, ship-painter. His loss, by water, is very heavy. The amount could not be ascertained.

WASHINGTON, D. C. Nov. 2, 1863.
Messrs. W. CHINOY & Co.:
You wish to know the medical effects of Bennett's Crimean Bitters, as experienced by myself. I very cheerfully reply with your request.
They are excellent for digestion, correcting diarrhoea, nausea, irritation of the stomach, and for the creation of a wholesome appetite. They pleasantly exhilarate, but followed by no stupefying reaction, and are extremely palatable.
In all respects they are the best stomach I have ever used.
Respectfully yours,
J. A. McDOUGALL.

U. S. ORDNANCE AGENCY, No. 45 WORTH-ST.,
NEW-YORK, April 26, 1864.
PROPOSALS WILL BE RECEIVED UNTIL THURSDAY, MAY 5, 1864, at 4 o'clock P. M., by this office, for the supply of the following, viz:
10,000 Carbine Cartridge-boxes.
10,000 Carbine Slings.
10,000 Carbine Swivels.
10,000 Sabre Belts and Plates.
The slings, swivels and sabre belts and plates are to be made in all respects, as to material, workmanship and dimensions, in strict conformity with the standard samples which can be seen at this office. The cartridge-boxes are to conform in dimensions and workmanship with the samples deposited at this Agency, and must be made from good quality, pure oak tanned leather. It is distinctly stipulated that this office is to have the privilege of inspecting the work done under any contract it may award, in all stages of its progress, at the shops of the contractors, especially to examine the stock before cutting.
They are to be delivered free of expense to the United States, at the New-York Arsenal, Governor's Island, N. Y., and there inspected, and none are to be accepted or paid for unless such as are approved upon inspection.
Bidders will state in their bids the time in which they propose to make deliveries, and each party obtaining a contract will be required to enter into bonds, with approved sureties, for its faithful execution. Failure to deliver at a specified time will subject the contractor to a forfeiture of the number he may fail to deliver at that time.
No bids will be considered from parties other than regular manufacturers, and such as are known to be fully competent to execute, in their own workshops, the work proposed for.
The department reserves the right to reject any or all bids, if deemed unsatisfactory.
Proposals will be addressed, properly indorsed, to Capt. R. CRISPIN, Captain of Ordnance, U. S. Ordnance Agency, No. 45 Worth-st., New-York.
R. CRISPIN, Captain of Ordnance.

THE U. S. 10-40 LOAN.

These Bonds are issued under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1864, which provides that all Bonds issued under this Act shall be EXEMPT FROM TAXATION by or under any State or municipal authority. Subscriptions to these Bonds are received at the United States notes at value of National Banks. They are TO BE REDEEMED IN COIN, at the pleasure of the Government, at any period not less than ten nor more than forty years from date, and until their redemption FIVE PER CENT. INTEREST WILL BE PAID IN COIN, on Bonds of not over one hundred dollars, annually, and on all other Bonds semi-annually. The interest is payable on the first days of March and September in each year.

Registered Bonds are recorded in the Books of the United States Treasurer, and can be transferred only on the owner's order. Coupon Bonds are payable to bearer, and are more convenient for commercial uses.

Subscribers to this loan will have the option of having their Bonds draw interest from March 1, by paying the accrued interest in coin, (or in United States notes or the notes of National Banks, adding 20 per cent. for premium,) or receive them drawing interest from the date of subscription and deposit.

As these Bonds are exempt from municipal or State taxation, their value is increased from one to three per cent. per annum, according to the rate of tax levied in various parts of the country.

At the present rate of premium on gold they pay over eight per cent. interest in currency, and are of equal convenience as a permanent or temporary investment.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as the various descriptions of United States Bonds. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties, or stock companies, or separate communities only, is pledged for payment, while for the debts of the United States the whole property of the country is holden to secure the payment of both principal and interest in coin.

These Bonds may be subscribed for in sums from $50 up to any magnitude, on the same terms, and are thus made equally available to the smallest lender and the largest capitalist. They can be converted into money at any moment, and the holder will have the benefit of the interest.

The fact that all duties on imports are payable in specie furnishes a fund for the payment of interest on all Government Bonds largely in excess of the wants of the treasury for this purpose.

Instructions to the National Banks acting as loan agents were not issued from the United States Treasury until March 26, but in the first three weeks of April the subscriptions have averaged more than TEN MILLIONS A WEEK.

Subscriptions will be received by the Treasurer of the United States at Washington, and the Assistant Treasurers at New-York, Boston and Philadelphia, and by the

CATARRH CURED.
THE CASE OF HUTCHINGS, THE "LIGHTNING CALCULATOR."

There was published in these columns a few days since the remarkable cure of Hutchings, the "Lightning Calculator," so well known to the public during the many years he exhibited his wonderful mathematical powers at Barnum's Museum, by the celebrated Oculist and Aurist, Dr. Von Eisenberg, of this City. Hutchings is represented to have been at the point of death, and but for the timely interference of the Doctor, would now be resting in his grave. This is a remarkable case, and worthy of the attention of persons similarly afflicted.

We think it is but just to Doctor Von Eisenberg to call public attention to this case. There are hundreds in the community suffering from catarrh, who, like the "Lightning Calculator," if not actually praying for death, are ready to accept of anything that promises to relieve them from their distresses. To such we would say, utilize and with inexperienced men, but consult, without unnecessary delay, Dr. Von Eisenberg, who, at least, has the beauty to assure his patients whether it is within his power to make them whole or not.

DEAFNESS CURED.
From the Tribune.
EARS TO THE DEAF.

Every man, and especially every woman, believes in his or her physician. There are philosophical minds which hold to an abstract faith in Allopathy, or Homeopathy, or Hydropathy, or some other form of scientific cure; but with the world at large the belief is not in the system, but in the doctor. Especially is this true as regards aurists and oculists. The patient who had recovered his sight or his hearing is sure that this blessing could have been restored to him by no other practitioner than that particular one by whom his eyes or ears were opened. Dr. Von Eisenberg is among our best-known aurists. He has not lost as ears as a brother practitioner has eyes, and is whose skill, therefore, we believe above all others. But we hear of him from those who extend him not merely as a surgeon, but as a benefactor. A recent case has been related to us, for the truthfulness of which we can vouch, though we can name no names. The patient was a lady who had been deaf from infancy, as a consequence of some of the ailments to which children are liable. Latterly the disease had taken an acute form, and the patient was subject to intense suffering. The deafness was rapidly becoming complete, and the general health breaking down under the physical exhaustion attendant upon constant pain. Ordinary remedies and ordinary advice were useless, and Dr. Von Eisenberg was called in. We need not repeat his diagnosis, for that would be only a list of hard names to the general reader. But he detected at sight the seat of disease, first in one portion of the organism, then in another, and with manifestation as skillful as his knight was accurate, he removed the causes, and the who, from infancy, had heard with difficulty, and latterly hardly at all, was restored first to perfect hearing and then to perfect health. Dr. Von Eisenberg's advertisement reminds us of this case, which we thus briefly relate, though not at his solicitation. Let him that hath not ears, hear.

From the Christian Times.
SIGHT RESTORED.
CONCERNING EYES AND OCULISTS.

Of the five senses, that which we call seeing is the most important and most valued. In proportion as this sense fails us, we are reduced to helplessness. If entirely destitute of sight, how slow would be our progress in knowledge, and how limited our sphere of action and usefulness. Endowed with it, the universe becomes a new creation, clothed with beauty and diversified by that infinite variety which never fails to attract the mind and heart.

For several months past this has been a practical subject to us. An inflamed condition of the eyelids commenced to manifest itself in the pupil, rendered the discharge of daily duties not only painful, but dangerous. Attributing it to the effect of a cold, we endeavored to throughout the Spring, with the hope that with the return of warm weather it would entirely disappear. But in this we were doomed to disappointment. Summer returned, but not our wonted sight. What might have been the result, either of further neglect or of incompetent treatment, we cannot say.

Stating our case to a friend, he answered us that a similar one in his own family had recently been treated with entire success by Dr. Von Eisenberg, of this City. Satisfying ourselves by more particular inquiries that the doctor is no empiric, but a scientific oculist and aurist, we concluded to seek the benefits of the treatment which we have now reason to acknowledge is very great. Though but a few weeks under his care, the appearance of our eyes has totally changed. The pupil is now full and clear, and the lids are entirely free from inflammation. The doctor says that the optic nerve has been weakened and the retina assumed a chronic inflammatory state, affecting much or less all the other tissues, and threatening, if neglected, to end in Amaurosis. Ophthalmia, is the term we believe, which medicals apply to eyes affected as were ours. Having obtained the much desired relief, we take great pleasure in acknowledging our indebtedness to the talent of Dr. Von Eisenberg, and of calling to it the attention of others who may be suffering from a similar or even worse condition of their eyes. It is said that Providence provides an antidote for every bane. It is certain that the eye is, in these times, subject to severer trials than formerly. Let us be thankful, then, that as we increase the tendencies which destroy the organ of vision, the progress of science keeps pace with these tendencies, if not in advance of them.

FROM LOOKOUT VALLEY.

"Holding On"—Where Are the Rebels?—Gen. Grangers—The Report of Gen. Thomas—Bragg's Prisoners for Whom He Had No Rations.

From Our Own Correspondent.

LOOKOUT VALLEY, Saturday, April 16, 1864.

"We are only holding on now," I heard a soldier tell his comrade yesterday—for the idea is spread among the ranks that the tide of war has flowed far Lieutenant-General to the banks of the Rapidan, and we are waiting to hear it sweep over his rebel lines, though they be as strong as Torres Vedras. But when the yellow comes, and this dread disease is changed for the tramp of men, we will still be holding on, and it will be found a stronghold that we have, too—the gateway of the West. It is the settled belief that there is no enemy in any strength within many miles of our position. What with Longstreet's men recalled to Virginia, and veterans withdrawn to the defence of Mobile, the grand Army of the Southwest grows less formidable. Reconnoissances show that they are not as bold as formerly. It is not long since we set out to find a large cavalry force, reported among the mountains of North Georgia, and spent several days looking for them. Leaving the infantry at a gap in the mountain, our cavalry scouted and scoured through the rocky forest roads of this hill-country for hour after hour, and dame rumor, convinced that the game was farther south than they cared to follow.

Orders requiring officers to resign their regiments are yet delayed, but the reorganization goes on apace. I have heard an anecdote of Gen. Granger, which looks as if our old corps commander is going to be the worthy successor of a worthy man. Some Captain in his Department had married a rebel lady, who occupied a neighboring mansion occupied by an elderly widow. The gallant Captain ordered it granted for the matron's need, and the occupant, not doubting it was by the General's order, could only beseech the General's clemency. He told her he would see her protected, and dooming an overcoat, went to await the Captain at the time appointed. "By whose order, Sir?" replied he to the insolent demand. "By Gen. Granger's," the Captain only had time to answer, when he was marched off between bayonets, recognizing for the first time the General's uniform.

Gen. Thomas' official report of the last battle gives the loss of the Eleventh Corps at Mission Ridge to be 200. The killed, wounded and missing of all the corps engaged before Chattanooga is put down at 4,000, against which he offsets 6,000 prisoners and 40 pieces of artillery. But if we had not taken a man or a gun, the result would have been as worthy, for it saved the army, and made us conquerors.

Whenever I look over that field, I feel, as most do, that it was a wonder the army escaped utter destruction. Their batteries already commanded our communications, and Gen. Bragg fell so sure of his prey that he said, as we afterward captured: "I am watching from my fort 20,000 prisoners that I have not rations for just now, so I let them keep themselves for a few days." That fancied security proved our real safety. Had we been beaten, even Gen. Grant has said, we could not have taken a piece of artillery off the ground.

In this connection, the history of the place is singular. It was there the Cherokee nation dwelt, and there the missionaries taught them. And the first breach of a treaty ever made by our Government took from those Indians in that place the lands which belonged to them. That breach of faith was commented and compelled by the slave power. The theatre of all that outrage and wrong was Mission Ridge; and when the battle was joined, did not the old Indian warriors press from their earthy beds, and cast down on the traitors in panic and defeat it seemed vain to hope for?

Thinks not the only one of those strange comparisons in this war, which leads one to think that the shafts of the Gods do not grind so slowly as the students finely fancied. During my campaign with the Army of the Potomac, the memory of the happy homes I had known only a few years before in the Valley of the Shenandoah forced on me many a similar thought. Half a decade had not passed since the Mecca, historically of Presidents, and ancestrally of most of the slave race on this Continent, geaded on by faction, and forgetful of the magnanimity which disdains to punish a weak inferior, instead on her right to hang a harmless old man and his misguided fellows. State officials were present, and the militia of several counties stood under arms while the deed was done. After the battle of Antietam our march lay through that very region, and showed us no happy homes, but desolated fields, trodden down by friend and foe, while the curse of the old man's blood seemed to be over the land. And has it been taken away? Though in the matter of the rebellion other States are guiltier than Virginia, is she not still the battle-field of the Republic, and ——"in justice by

Made to pass through the quench ordeal of fire."

The hyaenas of West and Middle Tennessee are showing much anxiety that the plan of a new State shall be dropped for the present. They want the old of the mountaineers of the "Switzerland of America" to manage the enemies of the Union among them, who are bolders when they dare and bullies when they meet to grin their ends. In this view, the people of this section do hold a lever of power in their hands, which, they may consider, can be wielded more effectually for the cause they love, as they are, beside saving the prestige of the old State a while longer. But whether reconstructed or divided, seed has been sown throughout Tennessee that will bring about, ere long, a proud harvest-time.

SURVEY OF THE STEAM SLOOP PENSACOLA—WHAT WILL BE DONE WITH HER.

The brief announcement of the arrival at this port of the U. S. steam sloop Pensacola was made one week. It confined to excite considerable attention among professional engine-builders, particularly among the engineers of our City where recollections of the Dishonest and Extravagant Secretary of the navy are the subject of great interest.

A survey has been held on the machinery and hull of the Pensacola, as is usual on the arrival of a vessel at the Navy-yard. The authorities refuse to give specific information in regard to the result of the examination, but it is understood that over $50,000 will be required to make the vessel sound again.

The Pensacola is one of five sister sloops built in 1859 by the regular construction of the Government. She was designed, like her sister ships, by the Chief of the Bureau of Construction at Washington, and built at the Portsmouth Navy-yard, having been launched on the 12th of August, 1859, before ten thousand spectators, among whom Florida and South Carolina. The machinery of the vessel was put in at Washington, remaining in the yard some time, to be completed.

The interest attaching to the Pensacola is caused by her failure to prove any efficient ironclad during the war. Her sister ships, the Iroquois, Seminole and Lancaster, all distinguished themselves in the memorable Port Royal expedition. Her sister, the Richmond (now captured by the rebels), was the flagship of Farragut's fleet in the Gulf. She was to be taken to Boston by Mr. DELANO at once, while her engines will be turned over to a working party for the purpose of having all defects remedied. The hull is in good condition, and will soon be put in order. There is nothing to prevent the vessel from being ready in November next.

ARRANGEMENT OF OUR IRON-CLAD DOUBLE-TURRETED RIVER VESSELS.

Concert of the Italian Benevolent Society for the Benefit of the Sanitary Commission.

NEW-YORK, Tuesday, April 26, 1864.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The Italian Benevolent Society L'Unione e Fratellanza, in New-York, wishing to contribute to the noble end aimed at by the Sanitary Commission, purposed to give all the proceeds which might accrue from the performance of "Il Trovatore," which Sig. MARESCO A. BARZIZA, member of the said society, assisted by his most distinguished pupils, had undertaken. But the plan could not be carried into execution, from the impracticability of obtaining a theatre such as the private character of the actors and actresses required. Instead of the "Trovatore," the committee appointed for the above purpose, availing themselves of the generous cooperation of Sig. MARESCO ANSONIA BARZIZA, his pupils and friends, intend to give a grand concert, at Irving Hall, next Saturday evening, April 30. The patriotic and philanthropic object aimed at by the Society, and the good services which your valuable newspaper has constantly afforded in behalf of the charitable work of the Sanitary Commission, make us hope that you will also help our little efforts, which come from grateful hearts to this hospitable country, and from a desire of contributing to the relief of those who suffered for their country's cause.

In anticipation of the requested favor, we render you our heartfelt thanks. The whole expense will be defrayed by the Italians in this city in order to send to the Sanitary Commission the gross proceeds of the entertainment. In behalf of Committee,

ACHILLI MAGNI, President.

CITY MISSIONS.—On Tuesday evening, the City Tract Missionary Society held a meeting in the Dutch Reformed Church, Twenty-first street. Several of the missionaries made statements, showing, in a variety of particulars, the good accomplished in systematic visitation among the poor.

Rev. A. R. Tuckerman, the Pastor of the church, in a few, earnest, hearty words, indorsed the enterprise and encouraged the laborers. The following figures are found in the statistics presented:—79,103 tracts distributed; 95 Bibles and Testaments given; 800 volumes loaned; 362 into Sabbath and day schools and Bible classes; 459 persons persuaded to attend church; 73 temperance pledges obtained; 860 meetings and 52 hopeful conversions.

ANOTHER FIRST-CLASS HOTEL.—On Broadway, opposite the Worth Monument and Madison-square—a locality, by the way, which is getting to be the Hotel Square of the City—is now erecting a first-class hotel building, to be supplied with all the comforts and conveniences of the best modern hotels. In another column will be found an advertisement for a partner in conducting this establishment, describing more fully the enterprise.—Tribune.

NEW-YORK, March 30, 1864.

Messrs. Geo. C. Hubbell & Co., Hudson, N. Y.:

GENTS—My family having been the recipients of marked benefit in health by the use of your Golden Bitters, I am induced to acknowledge my sense of gratitude in this letter, which you are privileged to use as you may desire. I am confidently assured that since the first bottle of your Bitters entered my house, I have heard of no complaints of dyspepsia. My wife has been troubled with the malady for years, and had also been much annoyed by "nervous" complaints, and the cures have both left her and she is well. Other members of my family have indorsed the good qualities of your article, and I can only say in conclusion that I should be happy to give verbal evidence to the doubting at any time they may call on me.

With much regard, I am
Yours truly,
M. A. GRAHAM.

DEAFNESS AND CATARRH.

No. 22 FOURTH-ST., NEW-YORK, Oct. 1, 1863.

Dr. Von Eisenberg:

DEAR SIR: Without recapitulating the numerous benefits I have received through your wonderful cure of the deafness I have labored under many years, the blessings I enjoy will convince the most skeptical.

I have tried many aurists, in Europe and America, without success. I was still deaf as a post.

Three years ago I entered your office, underwent one operation, hoping, yet doubting, I should receive any relief, but was agreeably disappointed in finding the genius of your profession.

The innate skill you possess cured my deafness in one almost painless operation.

The joy I experienced was indescribable; 'twas a new life to me.

My hearing is perfect to this day.

I strongly advise all who are suffering under a difficulty of hearing, or total deafness, to consult you immediately, as I also personally recommend all who apply to me. The numerous calls tax me as my time and patience, yet, remembering my own long, weary affliction causes me to pity them.

This is not written to advertise your well-known, unrivaled reputation—that would be puerile; but as a measure of precaution, to induce all to call on you at once, without troubling me; yet I do not refuse to see any one who comes to me. This is the only way I can show my gratitude.

I also call the attention of those who are suffering from Catarrh, which disease I have labored under one year or more.

I experienced difficulty in breathing, languor, heaviness over the eyes, a sense of tightness on the brain, and copious expectorations of a hard and viscid nature. Accompanying this is a "polypus," quite filling the right nostril. On the 20th ult. you operated on both, killing the polypus, which is gradually passing away, and giving me great relief from the Catarrh. One more operation will effectually cure.

This testimonial brings with it my unalloyed and grateful thanks, with but a poor delineation of your wondrous skill as an Aurist.

I am, Sir, yours very gratefully,
EDWARD TEMPLE HARRISON.

SPIRIT OF THE PRESS.

THE APPROACHING CAMPAIGN.

From the Richmond Enquirer, April 16.

With what will the President electrify the country before the meeting of the next Congress, which assembles here in less than thirty days? Will it be MAXIMILIAN'S recognition? Will it be France and England combining to raise the blockade? Will it be a victory? Of all the good news that the President could commemorate, a victory would most electrify his fellow-citizens and most express the public anxiety.

GRANT is said to be planning another "on to Richmond," with a hurra and Hurrahs upon our flanks or rear. The past preparations for the campaign are duly heralded to our authorities; indeed, so publicly to the concentration being made, so ostentatious are the enemy of all their arrangements, that one cannot but doubt, if these indications are not designed to deceive. The press of the United States has daily [illegible] of the reorganization of the Army of the Potomac, and so circumstantially and fully, that it was no difficult matter to correctly estimate its effective strength. Gen. Dumont writes letters, which are published in the New-York papers, that he is preparing a command for early active operations, that Annapolis is his rendezvous, and we are further informed that North Carolina is his destination.

Gen. Butler has been ordered to Fortress Monroe in the usual manner, accompanying Gen. GRANT, and the two corps that he is to command in an expedition up the Peninsula are published in the principal journals of the country, and these most obligingly brought to our authorities by the enemy's flag-of-truce boat. If no efforts have been made to conceal these preparations, certainly none have been taken to prevent our learning them, for the flag-of-truce boat has regularly delivered full files of the papers that were known to contain them. Why, then, has this publicity been given to preparations that all military experience teaches should be most stubbornly kept secret?

Can it be supposed that Gen. GRANT is so confident of success that, like the Carthaginian General, he would prefer to fight two armies at falling upon one? Is it to be supposed that he has been so intoxicated by success that he despises the usual precautions which the rudiments of military science demand? We can hardly think so, nor will the authorities of the Confederate States be deceived by this shallow device. We see no evidence of concentration on our part—no passage of troops from one department to another. BEAUREGARD still watches the enemy from the fortifications of Charleston, or seeks a fight in the swamps of Florida.

From Southwestern Virginia we hear rumors of movements into Kentucky and Tennessee. PRESTON and WORTHINGTON hold their positions in North Carolina, and the "all is quiet" on the Rapidan is unbroken by even a rumor. What efforts, then, are before made to meet this threatened advance?

We can only conclude that newspaper strategy and editorial campaigns have failed to make that impression which taken action, and that our authorities, in possession of better information, are biding their time, and holding portions which, like that of Southwestern Virginia, is a point from which an advance can be made right through the centre of the enemy's lines, and into the very heart of his territory, putting in jeopardy the State of Kentucky, turning all positions in East Tennessee, and, like Gen. Bragg's campaign, throwing the enemy back upon the Ohio, by threatening Cincinnati and Louisville.

Gen. GRANT's presence with the Army of the Potomac furnishes no criterion by which one should decide that he is there for the purpose of commanding another advance upon Richmond. Having commended in Tennessee and the West but very recently, and having placed SHERMAN in immediate command, all necessary preparations for an advance against Johnston may be made there just as secretly as they have been openly conducted in the East, and within a few hours the Alleghanies may frown Grant and his legions forward from the "relief in the East to the "relief" on the West, and his energy down upon Johnston, while the public in Virginia are straining their eyes to see his advance, or their ears to hear the distant thunders of his approach.

ADVICE TO JEFF. DAVIS—GROWLS FROM THE PEOPLE.

From the Richmond Enquirer.

To His Excellency the President of the Confederate States:

SIR: A wise and magnanimous Chief Magistrate will not turn a deaf ear to the well-meant suggestions of the humblest citizen; and, therefore, I address these lines directly to you, that you may judge, yourself, free from the intervention of any one else whatever.

I will not speculate upon the probable results of the loss of Richmond and East Tennessee, and Northern, Eastern and Western North Carolina; but I think I can see very clearly how Richmond and Virginia may be defended and held by our armies, and I look forward to the happiest results from such a consummation.

We have arms and ammunition in abundance, and men enough, and there is food enough in the country, in my opinion. If this be so, and the whole world must sooner or later know it—if it be really so—then if Richmond and Virginia be not successfully defended, an awful responsibility must rest somewhere.

I believe we have not only food sufficient for the men and horses, but that there is ample railroad transportation to place it in Virginia, where it is most needed. I have seen two thousand heavy packages of goods exposed for sale at a single auction; some selling at fifty dollars per yard that were not worth fifty cents; and, studying the subject, I found the secret of the scarcity and high prices of provisions. I found that no Government could compete with headed speculators, realizing such profit. They can afford to pay express companies and railroad companies ten times the freight paid by Government. Every day I see express wagons filled with heavy packages of provisions at the doors of the departments and bureaus in this city; and I infer that the favored officers (non-combatins) have plenty, even if the soldiers, wading through fire and blood, are kept for months on short rations.

These things are seen and known by the soldiers, who are still patient and patriotic. It is true, thousands of dollars are expended in advertising that express agents will carry food to the army—thanks to their patronizing omnipotence. But the parents of the soldiers will not send it unless they can be present and deliver it themselves.

But the remedy. I would humbly suggest to your Excellency the necessity of determining speculation by retirement. Let the Government take the entire surplus of those indispensable articles into its own keeping, as it has taken the entire population of certain ages. Then make everything give way to Government freight, and accumulate in Virginia not only enough for the army, but for the families of the soldiery, &c. Nothing could be easier or more simple. Let the surplus products be paid for at schedule prices, and sold at the same, the army being provided for, and there will be no more speculation. Your Excellency knows how salt has been supplied in Virginia; everything needful can be supplied in the same way, and we could maintain the war for fifty years.

I trust your Excellency will listen to a word as to men. They are not to be supplied by a few clerks from the department. Indeed, it would be a crying injustice, such as would ascend in thunder to Heaven, to remove some of them—those who have left house and land, and freedom, all for the cause, having here parents, little sisters and brothers depending on their salaries, for a scanty subsistence. No; remove only those who cannot make affidavit that they have no other means of supporting those dependents on them but their salaries, and the will reach a large per cent. But look narrowly to the non-commissioned officers here, who are patronized by the express wagons; young men, red-faced, and robust and rich, who go about boasting their ability to keep their clerks, in spite of law and order, safe for them in all the departments and bureaus; aye, even in the Conscription Department itself, and the beason need not be idle

The community is dissatisfied by seeing these starved and striped gaunt "soft pieces" while these near and dear to them are driven like sheep to the slaughter—Comp Lee—and the officers and soldiers in the field may grow discouraged. Let even-handed justice be done. And, with God's blessing (which we will have then, for we shall have deserved it,) the host of the invader will be broken and utterly dispersed. We have the men and the means to end the war gloriously this year, and I know your Excellency is as deeply interested in bringing about such a result as any man in the Confederacy. It is in the power of your Excellency.

ARREST OF AN ALLEGED SPY.

IMPORTANT PAPERS FOUND UPON HIM.

From the Richmond Enquirer, April 16.

A dashing young fellow, calling himself Dr. L. Lucc, who has recently cut quite a fine figure in fashionable and official circles in this City, was arrested on Saturday morning last, in Tappahannock, Essex County, while en route for the North, with lots of plans and drawings of high particular spots in the Confederacy, and doubtless a memory well stuffed with the latest "cent-official" information pertaining to the movements of Confederate troops. The arrest was made by Detective Jesse Ryan, who, with others of the Confederate Police Department, has for some time been in close and anxious pursuit of him. He had successfully evaded the manœuvres and countermarches of the whole department, begun about three weeks ago, when suspicion first fell upon him, and the department very naturally felt pretty sore about it.

On Friday night last, about half-past ten o'clock, Detective Ryan got out on horseback for Essex County, fell in with a member of the Maryland Line, who volunteered for "a little cruise," and took him along to Tappahannock. Here they encountered on the following morning the identical Dr. Lucc, on his way to the ferry, and, although the officer had never seen him before in his life, he rolled on his "pelate" and took him prisoner. Lucc attempted to get away and played very indignant, but the cool assurance on the part of Ryan and his friend, that he would get out certain if he didn't submit, soon settled him, and he accompanied them back to Sandy's Hotel, the Exchange of Tappahannock. He was then taken to a private room, where he was quietly informed that it was "the rule of war" that he should be stripped, and stripped he was, in spite of protestations and threats.

A SLOW COACH.

From the Richmond Enquirer, April 14.

Mr. MEMMINGER'S coffers are empty, for once, to the amusement of his clerks and the dismay of his creditors. Army officers are walking about town dead broke, with their descriptive lists in their pockets and no satisfaction as to when they can get rid of them in the usual way. The new issue is a slow concern. Machine oil and elbow grease must be scarce.

Treatment of the Inhabitants of the South by Our Military Commanders.

A NOTEWORTHY LETTER FROM MAJOR-GEN. W. T. SHERMAN.

We have gained possession of the important letter published below, and give it to our readers, who, after perusing it, will know more of the temper and character of the commander of the Grand Military Division of the Mississippi than they have known heretofore. The letter was not designed for publication, having been addressed to his Adjutant-General, in reply to certain interrogatories relative to the course to be pursued by subordinate commanders of military districts toward disloyal inhabitants:

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE TENNESSEE, VICKSBURGH, Jan. 21, 1864.

Maj. E. M. Sawyer, A. A. G., Army of the Tennessee, Huntsville:

DEAR SAWYER: In my former letter I have answered all your questions, save one, and that relates to the treatment of inhabitants known or suspected to be hostile, or "secesh." This is in truth the most difficult business of our army, as it advances and occupies the Southern country. It is almost impossible to lay down rules, and I invariably leave this whole subject to the local commanders, but am willing to give them the benefit of my acquired knowledge and experience.

In Europe, whence we derive our principles of war, as developed by their histories, wars are between kings or rulers, through hired armies, and not between peoples. These remain, as it were, neutral, and sell their produce to whatever army is in possession.

NAPOLEON, when at war with Prussia, Austria and Russia, bought forage and provisions of the inhabitants, and consequently had an interest to protect farms and factories, which ministered to his wants. In like manner, the allied armies in France could buy of the French habitants whatever they needed, the produce of the soil or manufactures of the country. Therefore, the rule was and is, that wars are confined to the armies, and should not visit the homes of families or private interests.

But, in other examples, a different rule obtained the sanction of historical authority. I will only instance the wars between WILLIAM and MARY, the English army occupied Ireland, then in a state of revolt, the inhabitants were actually driven into foreign lands and were dispossessed of their property, and a new population introduced. To this day a large part of the North of Ireland is held by the descendants of the Scotch emigrants, sent there by WILLIAM's order and an act of Parliament.

The war which now prevails in our land is essentially a war of races. The Southern people entered into a clear compact of Government, but still maintained a species of separate interest, history and prejudices. These indeed, became stronger and stronger, till they have led to a war which has developed the fruits of the bitterest kind.

We of the North are, beyond all question, right in our lawful cause, but we are not bound to ignore the fact that the people of the South have prejudices, which form a part of their nature, and which they cannot throw off without an effort of reason or the slower process of natural change. Now, the question arises, should we treat as absolute enemies all in the South who differ from us in opinion or prejudice, kill or banish them; or, should we give them time to think and gradually change their conduct so as to conform to the new order of things, which is slowly and gradually creeping into their country?

When men take arms to resist our rightful authority, we are compelled to use force, because all reason and argument cease when arms are resorted to. When the provisions, forage, horses, mules, wagons, etc., are used by our enemy, it is clearly our duty and right to take them, because otherwise they might be used against us.

In like manner, all houses left vacant by an inimical people are clearly our right, or such as are needed as storehouses, hospitals and quarters. But a question arises as to dwellings used by women, children and non-combatants. So long as non-combatants remain in their houses and keep in their accustomed business, their opinions and prejudices can in no wise influence the war, and therefore should not be noticed. But if any one comes out into the public streets and creates disorder, he or she should be punished, restrained or banished, either to the rear or front, as the officer in command adjudges. If the people, or any of them, keep up a correspondence with parties in hostility, they are spies, and can be punished with death, or minor punishment.

These are well established principles of war, and the people of the South having appealed to war are barred from appealing to our Constitution, which they have practically and publicly defied. They have appealed to war, and must abide its rules and laws. The United States, as a belligerent party claiming right to the soil in the military occupation, have a right to change the population, and it is just and, in both politic and just, we should do so in certain districts. When the inhabitants persist too long in hostility, it may be both politic and right we should banish them and appropriate their lands to a more loyal and useful population. No man will deny that the United States would be benefited by dispossessing a single, prejudiced, hard-headed and disloyal planter, and substitute in his place a dozen or more patient, industrious, good families, even if they be of foreign birth. I think it does good to present this view of the case to many Southern gentlemen, who grew rich and wealthy, not by virtue alone of their industry and skill, but by reason of the protection and impetus to prosperity given by our hitherto moderate and magnanimous Government. It is all idle nonsense for these Southern planters to say that they made the South, that they own it, and that they can do as they please, even to break up the Government, and to [illegible] the natural avenues of trade, intercourse and commerce.

We know, and they know, if they are intelligent beings, that, as compared with the whole world, they are but as five millions are to one thousand millions—that they did not create the land—that their only title to its use and usufruct is the deed of the United States, and that if they appeal to war, they hold their all by a very insecure tenure.

For my part, I believe that this war is the result of false political doctrine, for which we are all as a people responsible, viz., that any and every people have a right to self-government; and I would give all statesmen to reflect on the terrors of civil war. I know, plain-spoken men finding themselves in possession of a species of property in opposition to the growing sentiment of the whole civilized world, conceived their property in danger, and foolishly appealed to war; and by skillful political handling, involved with themselves the whole South on the doctrines of error and prejudice. I believe that some of the rich and slave-holding are prejudiced to an extent that nothing but death and ruin will extinguish, but hope that as the poorer and industrial classes of the South realize their relative weakness, and their dependence upon the fruits of the earth and good will of their fellow-men, they will not only discover the error of their ways, and repent of their hasty action, but bless those who persistently maintained a constitutional Government, strong enough to sustain itself, protect its citizens, and promise peaceful homes to millions yet unborn.

In this belief, whilst I assert for our Government the highest military prerogatives, I am willing to bear in patience that political nonsense of slave rights, State rights, freedom of conscience, freedom of press, and such other trash, as have deluded the Southern people into war, anarchy, bloodshed, and the foulest crimes that have disgraced any time or any people.

I would advise the commanding officers at Huntsville, and such other towns as are occupied by our troops to assemble the inhabitants and explain to them these plain, self-evident propositions, and tell them that it is for them now to say, whether they and their children shall inherit the beautiful land, which, by the accident of nature, has fallen to their share. The Government of the United States has in North Alabama any and all rights which they choose to enforce in war, to take their lives, their homes, their lands, their everything, because, they cannot deny, that war does exist there, and war is simply power unrestrained by Constitution or compact. If they want eternal war, well and good—we will accept the issue and disposition them, and put our friends in possession. I know thousands and millions of good people who, at simple notice, would come in North Alabama at the secret of the weapons whose presence now there. If the people of Huntsville think different, let them persist in war three years longer, and then they will not be consulted. Three years ago, by a little reflection and patience, they could have had a hundred years of peace and prosperity, but they preferred war; very well, last year they could have saved their slaves; but now it is too late—all the powers of earth cannot restore to them their slaves any more than their dead grandfather. Next year their lands will be taken, for in war we can take them, and righfully, too, and in another year they may beg in vain for their lives. A people who will persevere in war beyond a certain point ought to know the consequence. Many, many people (even patriotic people) in the South have been wiped out of national existence.

My own belief is, that even now the non-slaveholding classes of the South are alienating from their associates in war. Already I hear grumbling. Those who have property left, should take warning in time.

Since I have come down here, I have met many Southern planters who now hire their negroes, and acknowledge that they know not the earthquake they were in, while by appealing to possession. They thought that the politicians had prepared the way, and that they could pass in peace. They now fire

SIEGE OF CHARLESTON.

TWO HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-THIRD DAY.

From the Charleston Mercury, April 16.

The enemy kept up a brisk fire upon the city Thursday, firing between forty and fifty shells. About 1 o'clock a Parrott shell entered the roof of ALEXANDER DUNCAN'S workshop, at the foot of Hasell-street, struck on the anvil and bursted. Two young men and a negro boy were standing by the anvil at the time of the explosion. The two white men escaped uninjured. The negro boy named AARON, belonging to Mrs. HEARS, was struck on the shoulder and the left arm broken. He also received several severe bruises on the head. It is believed that amputation of the arm will be necessary.

Between thirty and forty shells have been fired at Fort Sumter since our last, most of which struck, but did no damage.

The enemy were again busy at the "Swamp Angel" on Thursday. There was no change in the fleet.

YANKEE DESERTERS.

From the Richmond Enquirer.

The records of Castle Thunder give strange evidence concerning the remarkably fine spirit of the Yankee army in Virginia. Within the last few weeks nearly a hundred deserters from Grant have passed over the line and come within system in the bosom of the rebellion. For the last few days they have been particularly persevering in getting to Richmond ahead of time, unwilling to wait for GRANT and stand the chances of being put to a great deal of unnecessary trouble and in no little danger. It is becoming a customary sight to see squads of five, six, eight or ten per day, marching up to Gen. WISEMAN's office under guard, but seeming as gay and glad as if they were in the best luck and with the best prospects in the world.

A WORTHY EXAMPLE.

A correspondent of the Charleston Mercury says that the inhabitants of Society Hill, S. C., have received the refugees from Charleston with the greatest hospitality; they have rented houses at the lowest rates, and sell them bacon at 40 cents per pound; butter at $1 per pound, and other things at the same generous rates. One gentleman employs a second to catch shad, and sells them to refugees at 50 cents each, allowing every family to purchase two. By their acts they prove themselves patriots and Christians; no Yankees there. We are one Confederate family, and it is the duty of every one of us to

NORTH CAROLINA.

CAPTURE OF A "BUFFALO" GAMP.

From the Richmond Enquirer, April 15.

On Friday last, three privates belonging to the Capt. BOYKIN' Company of the Sixty-second Georgia Infantry, aided by a few citizens of Bertie County, N. C., attacked a Union camp near Windsor, in that county, consisting of thirty or forty "Buffaloes," four Yankees, supposed to have escaped from Danville, and about forty negroes, routing, killing and capturing many of them. They were led by Capt. HOGGARD, formerly considered a good and true officer in the army of the Confederate States. He was, we learn, among the killed. When he first entered the Confederate service he was very firm in his devotion to the cause, but it is said that his defection commenced when he began to read the North Carolina Standard, since which he has grown worse and worse, until at last he has met with his reward in infamy and death. The four Yankees were recaptured and forwarded to Richmond, and the other prisoners were sent to Jackson and Windsor.

AFFAIRS IN JOE JOHNSTON'S ARMY.

A correspondent, under date of April 17, writes to the Richmond Examiner as follows:

"The health of the men in Gen. JOHNSTON'S army was never so good. Indeed, the hospitals here and in the towns in the Southwest are nearly all emptied, and the surgeons repose in otium cum dignitate, and if stationery were not so scarce might have the leisure to prepare valuable theses out of the results of their active and laborious campaigns. Gen. JOHNSTON'S liberal system of granting furloughs has worked admirably. The furloughed men are rapidly returning, greatly improved in vigor, in health and spirits, and many of them bring recruits.

The young men who are reaching the military age are rapidly joining their brothers and comrades in the army. It is an interesting and animating spectacle to witness the hilarity, pride and hopefulness which characterize and designate the minds of sturdy, rosy-faced, unbrowned young warriors, whom you meet everywhere, "going to the front," from those who, either voluntarily or from necessity, have to remain behind, or even from those who are going home on furloughs.

There will be little difficulty in feeding JOHNSTON'S and POLK'S army in this country, and of sending a surplus to your Virginia army, if the Government will infuse a little more vigor and activity into the transportation department. West Alabama and East Mississippi alone can supply the whole Confederacy with corn, and nearly with pork. But you in Virginia must see to the forwarding it.

THE FRENCH TOBACCO.

From the Richmond Enquirer, April 19.

The French tobacco stored in this city, and which will soon be shipped to Europe, consists of between seven and eight thousand hogsheads, all of which is of fine quality, and worth several millions of dollars. To transport it away at once, will require seven or eight ships, and it is said the requisite number will be at City Point in a day or two. The quiet manner in which the Yankee Government backed down from its refusal to permit this tobacco to pass the blockade, shows the stamina of Yankee pluck before the expressed demands of France, and testifies with equal force to the cave-in-policy of that same nation upon any emergency wherever the opposing power has pluck enough itself to pursue its demands with even decent pertinency.

It has been the custom of the French Government to purchase two years' supply of tobacco at a time, and keep always two years' supply a head. The last supply was evidently giving out, and, as tobacco is one of the necessaries of a Frenchman's existence, it would hardly have been wise, or even judiciously brave for the Yankee Government to have stuck to its determination of prohibiting its exportation from Richmond. The Confederate Government gains by the operation the export duties, and maintains its prestige for fair dealing.

ALBANY AND SUSQUEHANNAH RAILROAD COMPANY
(240 miles long)
FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS FOR $1,000,000 FOR SALE BY MARIE & KANZ, NO. 57 WILLIAM-STREET, NEW-YORK.
The undersigned now offer for sale $1,000,000 of the First Mortgage 7 per Cent. Bonds of the Albany and Susquehannah Railroad Company, (Enos F. Prentice, President,) redeemable in New-York July 1, 1883, and convertible into stock at par within ten years.
The Bonds are in sums of $1,000 each, coupons payable Jan. 1 and July 1, in the City of New-York. They are executed to Daniel Drew and Alfred Van Santvoord, Trustees, and secured by a mortgage which covers the whole of the said road, including the right of way, necessary real estate, superstructure, franchises and appurtenances belonging to, or to belonging to the company; and is the first and a preferred lien thereon, except that one other mortgage, directed by a special act of the Legislature of the State of New-York to be executed to the City of Albany, to secure the payment of the principal and interest of $1,000,000 of bonds, to be issued by the said city as a loan in aid of the said road, which two mortgages are by the terms of the said act to be equal in security and lien.
The length of road is 140 miles, entirely within the State of New-York, extending from the City of Albany to Binghamton on the Erie Railway, through a rich and productive region, forming valuable connections with other railroads at its two terminal, and opening another avenue from the coal regions.
The first division of forty-five miles from Albany to Schoharie has recently been opened for business; that portion from Schoharie to Oneonta, Otsego County, forty-five miles, has been let, and is now in progress; the balance is nearly ready for letting, and proposals are now advertised for grading and bridging fifty miles beyond Oneonta.
The cost of the first division, including rolling stock, is about $1,000,000, in addition to which $300,000 have been expended on the balance of the line; total expended to Jan. 1, 1864, $1,300,000.
The means of the company to complete the road, including what is already expended, are $3,000,000, individual and town subscriptions to the stock, of which $1,140,000 have been already paid in; $1,000,000 First Mortgage Bonds; $1,000,000 Albany City Loan, and $500,000 appropriated by the State of New-York, and payable one-half when the road is completed to Cooperstown, fifty miles; the other when completed eighty miles—to Oneonta; total, $4,500,000. Estimated cost of the road when completed, $4,000,000, or about $22,000 per mile. The joint mortgages to secure the bonds issued by the company, and the bonds to be issued by the City of Albany, together $2,000,000, constitute a total lien of $14,300 per mile.
